Register's Cooking School To Open On Wednesday

MANY PRIZES TO BE GIVEN AT SESSIONS

Modes of cooking for 1937 will be presented in an elaborate setting when The Register's new all-electric cooking school opens tomorrow at the local American Legion hall. The big premier session will begin at 2 p. m. All women of Santa Ana and vicinity are invited to attend.

Her extensive experience, combined with her charming personality, will make her presence one of the most enjoyable features of the school.

Three phases of outstanding interest will highlight tomorrow's session: New menu ideas, the demonstration of newest electrical equipment for the kitchen. The latest news in the field of meal preparation will include many menu suggestions, complete with recipes. Everything will be up-to-the-minute in subject and housewives will receive hints which will brighten their kitchens for an entire year.

Valuable Prizes Offered

STUDIOS HIRE NON-UNION MEN

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—(UP)—Widely circulated reports that "strike breakers" were being hired by motion picture studios were verified today when Pat Casey, studio labor representative, said approximately 150 persons had been engaged "to replace" strikers.

"Studios have hired 150 persons to replace those who left their jobs," Casey declared at his press conference today. "These are exclusive of painters who are not being replaced at present."

The labor representative for the studios also disclosed that his meeting with the Screen Actors' guild would take place tonight instead of tomorrow night as originally planned.

When informed that the guild would seek a blanket agreement governing hours, working conditions and recognition, Casey said he believed it was a fair request for negotiation.

Casey also declared that the attack on Westmore's makeup salon yesterday was in his opinion, not inspired by strike leaders. Vandalism with hammers and crescent did an estimated $10,000 damage last night to the studio, which is owned by four brothers who are among Hollywood's leading experts in preparing stars' faces for the camera.

Three men lured Night Watchman Harry Jager to a door, then brandished knives and forced their way in. Ordered to "scram," the watchman fled through a rear door.

Leaders of striking motion picture workers announced downtown Los Angeles and Hollywood motion picture theaters would be picketed and placarded tonight in a move to boycott distribution outlets of studios.

Charles E. Lessing, executive secretary of the Federated Motion Picture crafts, disclosed huge placards being prepared today which read "Studios on strike—do not attend theaters."

The strike leader said an appeal also was being sent to labor organizations throughout the United States and Canada to establish similar boycotts against theaters until the film producers grant union recognition to groups affiliated with the FMPC.

MCADOO DUE TO PRESENT COURT PLAN

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UP)—Chairman Henry F. Ashurst, D. Ariz., announced today that Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, D. Calif., would appear before the senate judiciary committee Monday with a proposal in connection with the judiciary reorganization bill.

Two Hour Discussion

"Senator McAdoo has a very good idea," Ashurst said when the committee ended a two hour discussion of the compromise proposal of Sen. George McGill, D. Kan., without taking any action. "I believe, however, I will let him explain it."

The committee appeared uncertain as to what action it would take on the proposal of Sen. M. M. Logan, D. Ky., to vote first on the president's bill and later consider amendments. Sen. Warren R. Austin, R. Vt., foe of the court bill, joined a strong bloc in favor of the Logan plan but it appeared that unanimous consent would be necessary to enforce it. Some opposition was expected.

Attended Hearings

McAdoo's appearance before the committee created interest because of his support of the administration and his investigation of judicial conditions in the past. He sat in on many of the public hearings on the president's bill.

McGill's compromise, which he said was received favorably by the committee, would provide for increase in the supreme court by additional justices when justices over 75 fail to retire. He would provide that not more than two such additions should be made to the court in any single administration.

Court Issues Writ In County Auditor's Fight On Typewriters

Superior Judge H. G. Ames today issued an alternative writ of mandate, on petition of County Auditor W. T. Lambert, ordering Purchasing Agent Eugene Fenelon to immediately purchase an L. C. Smith typewriter, requisitioned by the auditor, or appear in department two of superior court May 14 at 2 p. m. and show cause why he has not done so.

Lambert's petition, filed by Attorney L. W. Blodgett shortly before the alternative writ was issued, recites that Lambert requisitioned the typewriter, as required by law, on April 12, and that on April 13 Fenelon served him with written notice that the requisition was being disregarded "because certain firms handling typewriters were more entitled to patronage" of the purchasing agent. No other reason was given, the petition states.

The refusal, according to the petition, was not based upon any ground of economy or efficiency, either in Lambert's office or Fenelon's, and such refusal was "purely arbitrary, unreasonable, dictatorial and unlawful," and is in disregard and violation of the duties of the purchasing agent.

As the court's order under the alternative writ now stands, the petition would be heard in Judge James L. Allen's court.

HOLD PARLEY ON ECONOMIC CONDITIONS

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UP)—Chairman Robert F. Wagner of the senate banking and currency committee said today that Chairman Harriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve board had met with the committee today for a general discussion of the "economic picture."

Discuss Price Boosts

Wagner said the committee "discussed the general economic picture" with particular attention to recent price rises and the increased reserve requirements for federal reserve banks which became effective May 1.

There was no discussion of gold importations, Wagner said.

The committee took no action on the following pending legislation:

1.—A resolution sponsored by Sen. William H. King, D. Utah, calling for an investigation of the inflow of gold to this country and short term investments by foreign interests in American securities.

Repeals Bank Provisions

2.—A bill sponsored by Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D. Tenn., to repeal provisions of the banking act of 1935 prohibiting member banks of the federal reserve system from paying interest on local and state government demand deposits.

3.—A bill introduced in the senate by Sen. A. Harry Moore, D. N. J., to permit member banks to use United States government bonds and notes guaranteed by the federal government as a reserve for deposits, for that portion of the reserve requirement in excess of the requirement established by law.

BASQUE FORCES WIN VICTORIES

BILBAO, Spain, May 4.—(UP)—Encouraged by victories against insurgents pressing on Bilbao, Basque authorities today postponed the evacuation of 2300 children until tomorrow to permit 1000 more refugees to embark on the Spanish liner Habana for southern France.

The Habana had been scheduled to sail today with the children but it appeared that loyalist victories made it possible to hold the liner over a day to take aboard the additional 1000 refugees.

The delay in evacuation plans followed loyalist government victories, the Basques forcing back Rebel Gen. Emilio Mola's invading nationalist troops at several points.

The Italian "Black Arrow" brigade was trapped at Bermeo and many were reported to have been driven into the sea. Survivors fought desperately to extricate themselves from a grave position, army reports said.

Loyalist troops reported they had repulsed nationalist contingents at Rigoitia and at Guernica.

The battle raged all through the night and continued on today.

Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist leader, was reported to have taken personal charge of the insurgent forces to spur them on to Bilbao after British and French authorities said they would evacuate the non-combatants despite his displeasure.

EX-MONARCH BRINGS RING AND FLOWERS

MONTS, France, May 4.—(UP)—The Duke of Windsor, ruler no longer of the British empire but obviously happier than any king wearing a crown, stood on the terrace of the chateau Cande this afternoon with Mrs. Wallis Simpson, both waving to the French peasants who passed in their farm carts, cheering this historic love match.

Safe From Prying Eyes

A few hours before, their reunion had occurred safe from prying eyes in the shadowy interior of the castle's book lined library, with all reporters and spectators hundreds of yards beyond its windows, outside the main gate.

No one outside the house saw the first meeting of the famous lovers, made possible by the final divorce decree granted to Mrs. Simpson in London yesterday. True to their aversion to publicizing their romance, they arranged not to meet on the terrace of the chateau when the Duke arrived after a headlong dash by train and automobile from Austria after Mrs. Simpson had telephoned him the news of the divorce.

Instead, Mrs. Simpson waited inside the great main hall with Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers.

Retire to Library

Bedaux and Rogers met the Duke on the terrace and escorted him inside. After an exchange of mutual greetings, the Duke and

BOND ELECTION CALLED MAY 18

Date for the $3,500,000 flood control bond election will not be set by the board of supervisors until the meeting of May 18, according to a statement made yesterday by Supervisor Willard Smith.

Smith, in an announcement to the press last Saturday, said the date would be set on May 11, but since that time has learned that there is not sufficient time in which to draw up an ordinance that would be legally perfect.

In discussing the proposed ordinance yesterday, Supervisor Smith said it must be so drafted that it would meet the approval of bond attorneys. As a result, the ordinance will be drawn up with the assistance of attorneys who are familiar with bonds, and with engineers.

When the date is set for the election by the supervisors, it probably will be on or about the first day of July. The law requires that the election be called not less than 30 nor more than 45 days after adoption of the ordinance.

Supervisor Smith said it probably will be five weeks after adoption of the ordinance before the election can be held.

CHILDREN ESCAPE DEATH IN FLAMES

OAKLAND, Calif., May 4.—(UP)—One hundred nursery school children were taken safely from an annex of the Lake View school today when the building caught fire.

Four alarms brought every downtown piece of fire apparatus to the scene. The flames were brought under control only after they had nearly demolished the structure.

Twenty adults were in the building at the time, but they marched to safety. They were attending WPA art and music classes. At the Lake View school proper, more than a block away, 1000 children were led from the building in "fire drill" order, and did not return until the fire was extinguished.

While firemen felt confident no one had been trapped in the two-story building, they searched the gutted second floor for possible victims.

SEEK PENSION INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UP)—Rep. Thomas F. Ford, D. Cal., announced today that he will introduce a resolution calling for an investigation of the Townsend old age pension plan by the post-office and justice departments.

Ford said the draft of his resolution would be introduced tomorrow or Thursday into the house, it would carry no funds but would simply call upon the two agencies to investigate.

Chairman C. Jasper Bell, D. Mo., of the house committee which investigated the Townsend plan last year, said that he would support Ford's resolution.

"Something ought to be done to break up the movement, once and for all, after disclosures of our investigations," Bell said.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE OVER THEFT OF DOG

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(UP)—Despondent over the theft of her dog, a San Francisco mother drove her automobile off a cliff into Lake Merced today, was rescued by a passerby, then leaped into the lake a second time and drowned. She identified herself in a suicide note as Mrs. J. Powers, 35. The plunge of her car into the lake was witnessed by John H. Roher. Roher, believing he had witnessed an accident, dove into the lake, carried Mrs. Powers to shore, and dashed to the clubhouse for assistance.

When he returned to the cliff, there was no sign of the woman he had rescued a few moments earlier. By the time an ambulance from Park Emergency hospital reached the scene, the woman's body had floated to the surface of the lake. Once more Roher jumped into the lake, swam to her side and dragged Mrs. Powers to shore.

Harold Dooley, ambulance steward, pronounced her dead and summoned coroner's deputies.

STOCKTON STRIKE AVERTED

STOCKTON, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—A threatened tieup of the port of Stockton was averted today by arbitration which settled a dispute between employers and the Marine Office Workers' union. The controversy arose over discharge of three union clerks.

WIN BATTLE TO SAVE DREDGER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(UP)—A battle to save the army dredger Multnomah, with 15 men aboard, in heavy seas off the California coast 100 miles north of San Francisco, apparently was won today. The seagoing tug Sea Lion, towing the dredger, radioed that it had succeeded in turning the craft around and was headed for Bodega Bay with a coast guard convoy.

"No further assistance is required at this time," the Sea Lion reported. The message was received here by the marine department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Earlier the Sea Lion sent the following SOS:

"Losing tow off Fish Rock. Send immediate assistance."

Four coast guard vessels answered the distress signal. One was the power boat from the life saving station at Point Arena, Mendocino county, five miles north of Fish Rock.

The other rescue craft were the cutters Shoshone and Daphne from San Francisco and the cutter Shawnee from Trinidad, north of Eureka.

It was believed the power boat had reached the tug and its tow in time to help in preventing the lives from parting.

The Multnomah, one of the large army dredgers, had been working on shoals in San Francisco bay and left here May 2 in tow of the Sea Lion for the Columbia river.

Amelia Prepares For New Flight

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(UP)—Amelia Earhart plans to take off again some time before June 1 on her interrupted flight around the world.

"I can't set an exact date, however," she said, inspecting repairs on her $100,000 "flying laboratory" plane. "It all depends on the weather."

POTOMAC DEPARTS

GALVESTON, Tex., May 4.—(UP)—The U. S. S. Potomac, with President Roosevelt aboard, left Port Arkansas today, and headed for Port Isabel, at the mouth of the Rio Grande. The Potomac was escorted by the navy destroyers Moffett and Decatur.

FARMERS OF ORANGE COUNTY URGED TO FIGHT COMMUNISM

"We, the farmers of California and Orange county, have the responsibility of protecting the nation's food supply by fighting to the limit subversive activities on the part of communistic interests." This, in effect, was the key note of the meeting of the Associated Farmers of Orange County, inc., held last night in the banquet hall of the Santa Ana Elbell clubhouse.

The key note was sounded by Holmes Bishop, president of the organization. In his remarks prior to the introduction of the speakers Bishop pointed out that California grows 40 per cent of all agricultural products in the nation. For that reason, he termed the state "America's food basket."

"We have the right to expect full and efficient cooperation on the part of law enforcement agencies in protecting our farms," Bishop said. "We have the responsibility of protecting the nation's food basket, and since this food supply is so important, it is logical that Communism should

CANNON URGES BASEBALL QUIZ

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UP)—Rep. Raymond J. Cannon, D. Wis., introduced a house resolution today calling for an investigation of alleged anti-trust law violations by the "organized baseball monopoly."

Cannon charged that baseball players' rights were violated by organized baseball "magnates" in connection specifically with agreements as to transfer of professional players from one team to another.

He made public a letter from Attorney General Homer Cummings, dated April 14, in which Cummings said he did not believe that anti-trust laws had been violated. This was in answer to the original protest from Cannon regarding transfer of professional players.

The new resolution charged that "for a long time a practice has existed on the part of corporations owning the large professional baseball clubs . . . to exact from all ball players contracts placing such ball players in a condition of bondage and preventing players from playing with any other baseball team if he does not accept the terms dictated by the club owners by whom he is employed."

Cannon proposed a special house committee investigation into conditions in the baseball "industry."

Japanese, Border Guards In Clash

MOSCOW, May 4.—(UP)—The Tass government news agency reported a new clash today between Soviet border guards and a patrol of Japanese-Manchurian soldiers west of Lake Khanka.

The report said the patrol crossed the Soviet border and opened fire on the Soviet border guards with rifles and machine guns. The Soviet guards returned the fire, the Tass agency reported, forcing the Japanese-Manchurian patrol to return to Manchukuoan territory.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 4.—(UP)—Whipped by a teacher for playing hooky, Wilson Oliver, 12, a fifth grade pupil at Franklin school, went home and killed himself with a shotgun.

Olen Oscar Oliver, the boy's father, said he had been playing hooky for a month. His teacher, Wilbur Wilcox, whipped him with a rubber hose.

SENATE ADOPTS MORTGAGE ACT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—The senate today passed the Rosenthal bill to extend the present mortgage moratorium act until July 1, 1939. The bill goes to the governor for signature, as it recently was approved by the assembly.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam said today he had not yet signed the 1937-39 budget bill but hoped to "get to it just as soon as possible."

He declined to say whether he planned to alter the document as received from the legislature by removing capital improvement items from the budget, additional bills were necessary to provide more than $7,000,000 for those purposes.

The senate finance committee today followed the same course as the assembly ways and means group, approving appropriation and claim bills totaling about $3,900,000.

Japanese, Border Guards In Clash

MOSCOW, May 4.—(UP)—The Tass government news agency reported a new clash today between Soviet border guards and a patrol of Japanese-Manchurian soldiers west of Lake Khanka.

The report said the patrol crossed the Soviet border and opened fire on the Soviet border guards with rifles and machine guns. The Soviet guards returned the fire, the Tass agency reported, forcing the Japanese-Manchurian patrol to return to Manchukuoan territory.

ELECTION BATTLE CALLS OUT POLICE

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—(UP)—Police were rushed to a polling place on the east side of the city today to quell an election fight as voters turned out to ballot upon a mayor, councilmen, school board members and charter amendments.

When officers reached the polling place in the ninth councilmanic district, the battlers had disappeared. Election officials said several men had staged a campaign worker.

Chief interest today centered in the mayoralty campaign between Mayor Frank L. Shaw and Supervisor John Anson Ford.

Among propositions on the ballot were amendments proposing a municipal bus line, retirement plan for city employees and classification of apprentice civil service workers.

BRITISH, FRENCH SHIPS READY FOR EVACUATION

BILBAO, Spain, May 4.—(UP)—Frontier, May 4.—(UP)—British and French men of war stood off the Basque coast today awaiting the start of a mass evacuation of refugees from war torn Bilbao.

Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish Nationalist dictator, had refused safe conduct for refugees.

RIOT STAGED BY HARVARD STUDENTS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 4.—(UP)—Police used tear gas to disperse 1,000 rioting Harvard students early today. They had been sky-larking for two and a half hours, using water-filled paper bags as missiles, setting bon fires, and disabling trolley cars. The occasion was a "spring riot," an informal annual affair.

The "riot" began with a water battle between occupants of Lowell and Everett houses, which are separated by Plympton street. Water filled bags that didn't go in, windows, broke and drenched passersby. Soon red flares were lighted, illuminating the battle.

Harvard yard police, unable to control the students, called city police who, after other methods failed, resorted to tear gas.

One student, Frank D. Lawrence, 19, of Upper Montclair, N. J., was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace.

ASK $100,000 SEWER POLICY

Lloyd's of London, insurance organization, will be asked to underwrite $100,000 worth of insurance for the ocean end of the Joint Outfall Sewer district of which Santa Ana is the contracting city.

That was revealed by Sewer Commissioner Joe Smith last night at the city council meeting when he explained the recent approval by Santa Ana and other members of the district of a $300,000 policy at premium rate of $3250 annually was not acceptable to underwriting firms. The underwriters felt the $300,000 policy was too much of a risk.

Mac O. Robbins of Robbins-Henderson, Ltd., local insurance firm, handling the insurance, said underwriters, including Lloyd's of London, possibly would be willing to handle a $100,000 policy at the same premium rate. The policy, as proposed, provides that, in case of no damage during the year, a $1000 premium refund is allowed.

During the past 12 months, barges have damaged the ocean end of the sewer line approximately $50,000. A city engineer believed no breaks in the future would amount to more than $100,000; therefore, the $100,000 coverage would tend as much protection as a larger policy. Smith was ordered to contact other district members at once, seeking approval of the changed policy.

APPROVE MEASURE ON UNEMPLOYMENT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—Practically every worker in the state except those engaged in agriculture and domestic pursuits will be placed under provisions of the unemployment reserves act if Assemblyman Myron L. Cronin's bill wins final passage and the governor's approval.

The bill as approved by the assembly late yesterday would place all employers of one or more persons within the act. The present law reaches only employers of eight or more. Employees of small organizations have no opportunity to be benefited by the unemployment insurance plan.

The change would add some 350,000 workers to the eligible list which now totals about 1,137,000.

calms, setting forth the aims and proposals of the communist movement. She quoted a portion of one publication in which it was stated that inasmuch as agriculture was the most important industry in America, Communism must gain its control. These things were being brought to the attention of farmers so that they might know the type of battle facing them, she concluded.

The second speaker, introduced by Chairman Bishop, was Philip Bancroft of Contra Costa county, chairman of the legislative committee and member of the executive committee of the Associated Farmers of California. In his address, Bancroft said that Communism had set out to disrupt farming and prevent the harvesting of crops.

ERROR IN CONTRACT STARTS ARGUMENT

A one-year error in a contract for rental or purchase of a dual control motor grader sent city council into a spasm of argument last night. Prior to official councilmanic action, a contract was entered into between the city and May-Born company of 524 East First street, for use of the grader at rental of $300 per month or purchase of it during the rental period of $3891.54. The contract stated the machine might be purchased any time "before July 30, 1937," and Purchasing Agent Lloyd Banks who made arrangements for use of the grader, explained the date should have been July 30, 1938.

Councilman Joe Smith was "upset" mightily. "What kind of a contract is this?" he asked. "Are we buying this, renting it or just using it? I suggest we had better send this contract back to committee for straightening out before next meeting."

"But we're already using the machine and I don't want to take the responsibility of using it without a contract," Banks said.

"I vote 'no,'" Smith said, as the others voted "yes" and ordered the contract amended.

Protest Against Unightly Lots

Checkup of unsightly, unsanitary lots where second hand lumber and other building materials are stored was ordered by city council last night, after 36 petitioners entered protest against the stacking of lumber at 1070 West Sixth street, on a vacant lot.

The petitioners complained the lumber piles created a home for rats and were detrimental to property values. City Attorney Lew Blodgett suggested a city-wide checkup of such places be made and his suggestion was concurred in. A report by Councilmen Joe Smith and Plummer Bruns, named as investigating committee, will be made May 17.

EDWARD AND WALLY UNITED

Mrs. Simpson retired momentarily to the library.

Rogers said there was no display of emotion beyond a show of gladness to be together again, when the two met in the hall. Mrs. Simpson refrained from appearing on the terrace when the Duke arrived to avoid publicity, he said.

The first appearance together of former King Edward VIII and Mrs. Simpson since the abdication, occurred after lunch, when they emerged on the terrace and acknowledged the cheers of the peasants.

An hour before the duke's arrival, the entire household was on the terrace, but 10 minutes before his car drove through the guarded gates, all went inside except Bedaux and Rogers, three butlers and a footman.

Reporters Kept Away
Reporters were kept about a quarter of a mile away. The United Press correspondent, the only one equipped with field glasses, could see the outside scene. Police guarded all gates.

Bedaux took pictures of the arrival with a home movie camera. Rogers greeted the duke and the servants took his baggage. They went indoors and the scene was ended for outside eyes.

"Mrs. Simpson met the duke inside the house where not even her closest friends saw the reunion," Rogers told the United Press later. The duke came here with the speed of an impatient lover from his retreat at St. Wolfgang, Austria, as soon as Mrs. Simpson joyously informed him by telephone yesterday that her final decree of divorce had been granted in London, leaving her free to marry him.

He went by train to Verneuil L'Etang, 31 miles outside Paris, where his black limousine awaited him. Escorted by motorcycle policemen and three cars filled with French detectives, the car sped for Monte.

The duke brought gifts and flowers. One box was filled with Alpine flowers which he picked himself in Austria. Another held an embroidered Alpine costume. In his pocket was the platinum wedding ring which he bought in Paris.

DUKE'S LAWYERS ASK FOR BOOK INJUNCTION

LONDON, May 4.—(UP)—Lawyers for the Duke of Windsor applied today for an injunction against the Heinemann company, publishers of the book, "Coronation Commentary."

It was believed that the injunction was sought to prevent further distribution of Geoffrey Denis' best seller in which he criticized the Duke.

The application was made in the high court of justice.

Author Dennis, recently resigned as a League of Nations official, was in the law courts building. Asked his views on the situation he said:

"Unfortunately, I must not say a word although there is a lot I should like to say."

Tall, gray-haired, wearing horn-rimmed spectacles, he spoke with a pronounced American accent—picked up in Geneva, the league headquarters.

Contest Entry Halts Police, Demands Votes

Lola Mae Harmon, one of the candidates in the American Legion popularity contest, carried her campaign into Santa Ana police headquarters and came out with a handful of votes.

Miss Harmon entered the squad room just as the motorcycle squad was changing shifts. Stationing herself in the doorway she let it be known that "they shall not pass," either duty or homeward bound until they had contributed votes. In just a few minutes the officers went to work and Miss Harmon left, smiling, with a handful of votes.

The winner in the contest, which is open to every girl and woman in Orange county, will be sent to Las Vegas, Nev., and Boulder Dam with all expenses paid, on "The Mainliner" luxurious airplane of the Western Air Express. She will be lavishly entertained in Las Vegas where she will remain for a short visit.

Registrations for the contest will be accepted at every Legion post in the county and contest headquarters, 313 North Birch street, Santa Ana, until May 10. Contest entries for the past two days include: Betty Lou Hiner, Newport Beach; Pat Pope, Laguna Beach, and Margaret Stowe, Anaheim.

Council referred the matter to the commissioners.

BREAKFASTERS WILL OBSERVE 9TH BIRTHDAY

Santa Ana Breakfast club will celebrate the ninth anniversary of its founding at the Main cafeteria tomorrow morning, Edward Cochems, president, announced today. A special program will mark the event.

Since its organization in May, 1928, the Santa Ana Breakfast club has grown from an organization of 28 members to one boasting 365 on its present roster.

Cochems Opens Drive
And since Bruce E. Switzer first wielded the gavel in 1928, the "Thursday morning ham-and-eggers" have taken an active interest in civic affairs, but was nearly killed off by the depression, officials said.

It was Edward Cochems, ninth president of the organization, who took over the gavel in 1936 and started the drive to bring back the organization to its boom days.

Cochems worked night and day to straighten out difficulties the club had gotten into during the lean years when most of its members were worrying how to make both ends reach.

The photographer patched together the records, brought the minutes up to date, and revived the Breakfast club spirit that had previously enjoyed many outstanding events.

Club Emblem

An aeronautical breakfast drew 2,750, while a street breakfast had an attendance of 1200. The Rodeo breakfast had 800 while the lawn fete and the initiation of Maurice De Mont, founder of the Los Angeles Breakfast club, each drew 400. The pre-centennial breakfast was the second largest in attendance, having 1800 present.

The club emblem is a cartoon entitled the "Spirit of Youth" and was adopted by the club. It was designed by the late Jack Fisher, Santa Ana world war veteran. Fisher returned from the war shell shocked but continued as the Registrar staff cartoonist until his death.

"It is through the splendid cooperation of my various committeemen that the Santa Ana Breakfast club is the fastest growing organization in Orange county," President Cochems declared.

OIL MAN HELD ON GRAND THEFT COUNT

Charged with showing motion pictures of what purported to be a producing oil well in action to obtain a $5000 investment from W. N. Smith of Orange county, George K. Linderman, Bakersfield, today faced Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court, for preliminary hearing on a grand theft count.

Linderman testified he sold Smith one-tenth interest in a Kern county well which produced 1000 barrels of oil daily because he, Linderman, needed the $5000 to take up a lease on another well, expected to produce.

Smith alleged Linderman purchased some 150 barrels of oil, placed it in the circulating system of the well in which Smith obtained an interest, then took motion pictures of the "well in action."

HUGE CHOIR TO GIVE PROGRAM IN CITY BOWL

Plans for presenting more than 400 singers, representing 18 Orange county church choirs, in a program of sacred music to be held at 4:30 p. m., May 23, in the Municipal Bowl, were announced today by Whitford Hall.

Hall, who is director of music at the First Presbyterian Church of Santa Ana, has arranged the program after a conference with directors of the other choirs, and will lead the massed singers when the program is presented.

Program of Beauty

Hall said the massed choirs will present their program in a manner similar to those presented by Westminster choir in Philadelphia. The entire presentation, he said, will be one of infinite beauty and has been planned not only for the enjoyment of the listeners but to raise the spiritual level of the entire community.

Choirs taking part in the program were selected from the various churches of the county and are holding individual rehearsals, under their own directors. At 3 p. m. Sunday all the groups will meet at the First Christian church in this city for their first rehearsal as a massed group. The final group rehearsal will be held in the Municipal Bowl, May 16, one week before the program is presented.

Hall announced the following choirs and their directors as cooperating in the presentation: Anaheim-Calvary Baptist church, Winifred Sloop; White Temple Methodist Episcopal, J. J. Coleman; Salem Evangelical, Ernest H. Elser and First Christian church, Mary Everhart.

Martin Warns Of Dictatorship

SEES RISE OF MENTALITY AS ONE SOLUTION

BY GEORGE HART

American mentality must rise above the mob mind and quit being fooled and ruled by cunning propagandists, or America will follow Russia, Germany and Italy into submission to dictatorships, Dr. Everett Dean Martin, noted forum leader, warned an audience at the high school auditorium last night, closing the series of federal forum programs that have been under way since last September.

From propaganda rule by "pressure groups," the next step is outright coercion, the speaker declared. Trotsky was the master of propaganda, and the guiding light of Communists in undermining the Czar and maneuvering the liberals into comprising themselves to the cause of the Reds. Hitler and Mussolini both are geniuses with propaganda, he said. Propaganda placed both in power.

Gullible America
America now is being ruled by "pressure groups" through use of propaganda that is swallowed whole by a gullible American public, according to Dr. Martin, who appealed for independent thought, and said that education is the hope of the future, and forms the bulwark of honest expression.

Tawdry Sentiments
His detailed expose of propaganda types and methods included a scathing arraignment of the American public for its acceptance and approval of the "false and tawdry" sentiment supplied them in motion pictures and on the radio, as well as its childish weakness for all forms of propaganda advertising.

He warned of the psychological effect present-day propaganda is having upon American youth, reared in a world of slogans, where the only success results from hypocrisy. "It is a difficult job for educators to discipline youth to the truth, when they see that lies succeed," said Dr. Martin.

Unthinking Action
Presenting education as the solution of the menace, he contrasted educators and propagandists. The educator, he said, is interested in development of the student's mind. The propagandist doesn't want the individual to use his mind; the educator teaches cool, calm deliberation, while the propagandist wants burning enthusiasm and immediate unthinking action. The educator had convictions, and should have them, but wants the student to reason why he has such convictions; the propagandist merely uses spectacular appeal, he said.

Both Hitler and Mussolini are slightly paranoid; Huey Long had the same symptoms, he declared, and was a border line case, he said.

Weaknesses of Men
One type of propaganda, he said, has been called the counsels of Democracy, and the forum was held up as an example of that type, which Dr. Martin held was the safeguard of democracy. "It is the first thing a dictator destroys," he said.

Constant Repetition
"The first device of propaganda is to catch the eye of the unthinking, not to educate him but to command him. The sensational appeal of advertising is designed to paralyze judgment," said Dr. Martin. "Sex appeal, beauty appeal and the like, are examples. The second type of propaganda is special pleading, which tells only one side of a question; which loads the dice, urging the individual to use his mind, while seeking to prevent that very thing. The third method is constant repetition; the slogan, and its psychological effect when continually dinned into the ears or paraded before the eyes of the public. For example, when a transportation company has a lot of wrecks, it immediately adopts some catchy slogan about being the safest company in the business. There is such slogan as the one about chewing gum, 'eat your way to a syphilis-free figure.' The fourth device is false sentiment. The public is not critical of its emotions, and the more false, cheap and mushy emotions that are presented in film and radio, the better the public likes it."

Reviews Forum Program
City School Superintendent Frank A. Henderson, introducing the speaker, reported that the $32,000 federal appropriation expended on the Orange county forum, gave employment to 27 people since last August, at an average wage of $80 per month, and benefited Orange county to the extent of $19,000 by taking these employees off of local relief. The sum of $11,000 was expended on forum talent, heard by 60,000 persons at the 28 meetings, he said.

While it is not expected that the federal subsidy will be renewed next year, since so many other communities are seeking federal education to resume the forum programs next fall under a cooperative plan of exchanging forum speakers, Henderson announced.

"STUNG" BY BEE THEFT
It was Gilbert E. Shuman of Little Village, Huntington Beach and Garden Grove boulevards, who got stung and not the pair of thieves who did him wrong, he told Deputy Sheriffs Fred Swayze and Walt Dungan yesterday. Tracks of two men were found near his bee hives. Two hives of bees had been stolen and safely hauled away.

Rezoning from single family to duplex zone was ordered for the east side of Olive street between 10th and Washington streets by city council last night at request of Owner James S. Jones.

IMPORTANT TAX THEORY TO BE FORUM SUBJECT

Two speakers, well-known in Orange county, will debate tonight at the Forum for Political and Economic Education, in Junior College building, upon a theory which probably has caused more confusion in connection with taxation than any other, according to W. H. (Ted) Blanding, program and committee chairman, today.

Attorney Sharples Walker, affirmative, and Lew Betts, Tustin rancher, negative, will hold a short debate on the subject, "Resolved, that taxes should be paid, graduated upward in proportion to ability to pay; ability to pay meaning income on total assets of the citizens."

New Philosophy
"This is a relatively new philosophy of taxation," Blanding stated, "and every voter who feels he understands how, properly, to share government expense, should hear it discussed whether it is a helpful principle or not."

The public is invited to attend and to take part in a general discussion and question period following the debate, which lasts 40 minutes.

A half ton of coal is required to start a freight train and bring it to running speed.

CITY COUNCIL ADDS TO HOG RANCH PROTEST

Santa Ana city council's protest against establishment of the proposed hog ranch in the Talbert district was scheduled to be added to the voices of residents and Fountain Valley organizations when the matter of considering the permit already granted for the hog ranch came before the county supervisors late this afternoon.

Scheduled to hear the matter this morning, the supervisors deferred the proceedings until 2:30 p. m., and it was expected that probably the rest of the day would be occupied with the discussion.

Official Santa Ana protest against establishment of a hog ranch at Wright street and Wintersburg road, southwest of Santa Ana, where equipment construction now is under way, was registered by city council last night in a resolution presented to the county board of supervisors today.

"Whereas, word has come to individual members of the city council that an application has been made for establishment of a ranch for the feeding of hogs and whereas it is the council's opinion such establishment would be detrimental to the best interests of Santa Ana and its inhabitants, we petition the supervisors to take such steps as necessary to prevent the establishment," said the resolution.

Council pointed out the closely settled and well-cultivated area as the best reason. Protests were submitted to council by area residents, among whom were J. R. Wardlow, W. B. Heil, Rene Collins, Fred C. Wright, Max Hoepfner and Harry C. Fulton, the last, president of the trustees board of Fountain Valley school district.

NO. 8 CLUB TO MEET
Members of Santa Ana Towns Club No. 8 will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the Lincoln school. A speaking program will be presented, and special music provided.

LOCAL LEADERS DISCUSS NEEDS AT CONFERENCE

Orange county agriculturists and other employers of mass labor were urged yesterday by Harold L. Pomeroy, state director of SRA, to file their employment needs with SRA through the National Re-employment Service and the California State Employment service.

"In this way," Pomeroy said, "we can assign qualified men to the jobs and take them off the relief rolls. If they fail to report to the prospective employer they will remain off the rolls."

Cases Reduced

Pomeroy made this request at a luncheon meeting of representatives of Orange county agricultural interests, with heads of the various relief agencies operating in the state and county. In addition to Pomeroy Mrs. Kathryn Handler, head of the SRA in Orange county, Jack Snow, county welfare director and Charles Fallert, manager of the National Re-employment Service in Orange county, attended the conference.

L. A. Bortz, past president of the Orange County Farm Bureau, presided as chairman of the meeting, and was assisted by R. D. Flaherty, secretary-manager of the Farm Bureau. R. N. Pomeroy, region director of the Agricultural Department of the State Chamber of Commerce, introduced Pomeroy as the principal speaker.

Action in Strikes

Pomeroy said that the SRA in Orange county, has reduced the number of cases receiving relief from 2,200 in April to 1,200 and expects to make further reductions, bringing the total number receiving state aid to approximately 800.

Agriculturists were requested to employ their labor directly through the relief agencies, rather than from transient labor.

Pomeroy said he is not asking ranchers to take jobs away from men normally employed as seasonal workers by the farmers. The cooperation is urged only in the employment of additional workers. He said that if the SRA officials know the number of job opportunities offered in a certain area, they can reduce the relief rolls to the point where the job market is saturated.

Cites Investigation

Pomeroy said that when a man accepts private employment and is fired, he is not definitely eliminated from receiving relief until after a thorough check with the employer.

Speaking on the subject of giving state aid to strikers, Pomeroy said that in every case where applications for help are made, this assistance is given only after a thorough investigation reveals that there is no work available for the applicant and that there is need for emergency aid.

He cited the case of the strike of a portion of the workers at the Douglas Aircraft plant as one case in which relief was withheld from strikers.

Legal Responsibility

"We investigated this strike," Pomeroy said, "after applications had been filed for relief, and turned them down. The plant was not closed and 70 per cent of the workers were still on the job. Therefore we took the attitude that work was available for the applicants and denied them relief."

On the other hand, relief was extended during the maritime strike that tied up Pacific Coast shipping because that strike absolutely halted all work on the docks and every industry connected with shipping.

The relief administration, Pomeroy pointed out, has a legal responsibility to provide aid for destitute families when they apply individually and if no work is available. The administration, however, has no right to determine the justifiability of the strike.

Following the address by Pomeroy, Stewart Strathman, representing the Associated Farmers of Orange County, urged co-operation of all farm interests with the relief agencies and re-employment service and R. D. Flaherty declared he did not believe that the state would get much further in denying aid to strikers unless "we as citizens are willing to go out, publicly, and say as we do in meetings such as this that we do not believe that strikers should be fed."

ECONOMY TO BE STRESSED BY NANCY BAKER

Economy—the first interest of every homemaker—will be emphasized at the Register All-Electric Cooking School which opens on Wednesday at the American Legion hall, Miss Nancy Baker, widely known home service authority, will personally supervise the cooking course.

New suggestions for inexpensive meals will be presented, and housewives will be given free recipes so that they may duplicate the menus at their own tables. The economical features of electric cookers also will be discussed in a practical manner. She will explain how a saving is affected by reduction of shrinkage of meats, thus enabling food to make more servings. Fuel conservation is accomplished in numerous ways on an electric range: by steaming vegetables at low heat, by doing away with a double boiler, by automatic oven control, by use of a thrift cooker, and by the insulation of the oven which keeps all the heat inside to be used in cooking, with none escaping to be wasted. Another saving is brought about by the elimination of cooking failures, since the dependable heat of an electric range unfailingly produces perfect results.

A further contribution to cooking thrift comes with the lowered electrical rate which accompanies use of an electric range. This rate applies to all electricity used in the home. When an electric water heater and an electric range are both used, an even lower electrical rate is received.

"Thrifty housewives are becoming more and more convinced of the economy of electric cookery," Miss Baker declares.

NEW SHORTENING IS PLACED ON MARKET

A shortening that you can cream in just one-third of the normal time—with naturally, just a third as much work—is welcome news to the thousands of Western housewives who like to run their kitchens themselves. It's especially welcome if, besides lightening your work, it helps you turn out lighter, flakier and more delicious cakes, pies, and fried foods of every kind.

Just such a modern cooking miracle has recently come to our attention—a new, improved, "super-creamed" vegetable shortening which can be creamed in thirty seconds! All the hard work's been done for you already, by the manufacturers, and as an added result of this wonderful new process, the cakes and pastries you make with the "super-creamed" shortening are lighter and fluffier than ever. Potatoes and other foods fried in it, moreover, are made miraculously digestible.

Most of us know at least a little about the extraordinary progress that has been made in improving vegetable shortening during the recent years. In the very beginning, we had refined cottonseed oil. But that couldn't be used for baking because it wouldn't mix with other ingredients. Next, scientists tried mixing a small amount of heavier fat with the cottonseed oil, to give it body; but that wasn't a success either.

Modern vegetable shortening succeeded where the earlier varieties failed. And now, to cap the climax, comes this new and improved "super-creamed" Crisco. It is getting a hearty welcome from American housewives.

OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

BUENA PARK, May 4.—Nine-year-old Junior Redelberger celebrated his birthday anniversary with a party Saturday which included a matinee at the local theater in addition to games at the Redelberger home on Western avenue. Guests were Francis Moffett, Howard Spohn, Bruce Schofield, Donald Le Page, Lloyd and Bobby Henderson, Buena Park; and Edgar and Phillip Grabau and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Grabau of La Habra Heights.

ELECTRIC COOKERY WILL BE FEATURED

At the bridge table, on the street, everywhere women meet, the Register All-Electric Cooking School is the subject of interested discussion. The school will be held tomorrow at the American Legion hall.

Efficient home management will be the theme of the new cooking forum. Latest suggestions to simplify meal preparation and many fine recipes will be given out at the sessions, each of which will be different and equally entertaining.

Miss Baker, charming and capable homemaker expert, will preside at the school. She will demonstrate the time-saving and economical phases of electric cookery as she prepares the tempting dishes before the audience. An electric range, in her opinion, is a necessary part of a modern well-planned kitchen.

"An electric range makes numerous culinary wonders every day occurrences," Miss Baker declares. "Custards, rarebits, icings and other former double boiler foods, are cooked on the surface of an electric range in an ordinary pan. Vegetables may be steamed in the same manner. Cake baking is insured against failure because of the no-draft oven. Entire meals are cooked in the oven while the housewife is far away."

The electric range and other equipment on the cooking school stage will be the latest type, and housewives are invited to remain after adjournment to inspect these fine electrical kitchen accessories.

AUNT SALLY MAKES MAN'S CAKE TODAY

My niece Sally makes something of a ritual of her husband's birthday, and the ritual of course includes a cake, which she always takes pride in making herself.

This year I suggested that she try something a little out of the ordinary. "Birthday cake don't always have to have white icing," I pointed out. "Why not try what I call my 'Man's Cake'?"

So here's the recipe Sally used: A MAN'S CAKE (Tube pan, 7-inch)

1/2 cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup cold, strong coffee
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped

Blend Crisco with the sugar and eggs thoroughly in one operation. Then add the sifted dry ingredients and the coffee alternately. Stir in nuts and flavoring and lastly fold in the egg whites beaten stiff but not dry. Turn into tube pan rubbed with Crisco and bake in a moderate oven, (350 deg.) for one hour. Cool and ice with

Coffee Caramel Icing
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup strong coffee
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup granulated sugar
Boil together the sugar, coffee, and salt until syrup spins a thread. (232 deg.) Pour one-third of syrup slowly over egg whites, beaten stiff. Cook remainder of syrup until it forms a soft ball in cold water, 234 deg., and add to icing. Beat to proper spreading consistency.

Yesterday morning I spent at my niece Sally's, helping her with mending that had piled up, as mending will. It was a very busy and pleasant morning, and passed so quickly that it was lunch time almost before we knew it.

I offered to get lunch, and looked through the refrigerator to see what could be thrown together into a tasty dish. The first thing that struck my eye was some left-over ham, so I decided to surprise Sally with one of my favorites—ham fritters with bananas.

Here is a recipe that will make twelve small fritters:

Ham Fritters With Bananas
2 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Chopped onion, if desired
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups chopped left-over ham
Beat eggs, add milk, seasoning, and ham, then flour. Drop by spoonfuls into deep Crisco heated to 375 to 385 deg., or hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in 40 seconds. Fry until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Arrange on center of platter and surround with fried bananas as follows:
Peel six small bananas, dip them in lemon juice, roll them in dry bread crumbs, and fry as above until brown. Garnish with parsley.

WHAT REFRIGERATOR HAS THE LOWEST 10-YEAR COST?

THE U. S. PUBLIC WORKS ADMINISTRATION WANTED TO KNOW and here's what they did about it

When PWA's Housing Division studied food-keeping economy for the future residents of their low-rent housing projects, they made a discovery. They found that electric refrigeration—far from being a luxury—was the lowest cost food-keeping they could buy in a majority of their projects.

To pick the most economical electric refrigerator, for 16,697 dwellings in 34 of these projects, they asked for bids from leading manufacturers—not on price alone, but initial price PLUS ten-year cost of electricity. Westinghouse won this contract, showed the lowest 10-year cost of them all. And... it's 10-Year Economy that counts!

NEW IDEAS ON COOKERY WILL BE REVEALED

New ideas on carefree cookery will be given by Miss Nancy Baker, well known authority on home management, at the Register All-Electric Cooking School which opens tomorrow at the American Legion hall.

All women of Santa Ana and vicinity are invited to attend. "The modern homemaker wishes to serve good meals to her family, but she wishes to do it with an ease which leaves a large part of her time free for other things," Miss Baker said today in discussing the coming cooking school. "I have prepared a series of programs designed to be of practical value in saving time and work—in short, to help free the home woman of tiresome kitchen details so that she will truly be a care-free cook."

In keeping with the carefree theme, Miss Baker has chosen an electric range for her cooking demonstrations. Electric ranges, according to the cooking school home economist, offers many conveniences which greatly reduce the attention necessary in the preparation of a meal. Less kettle pecking and pot watching is required because of the constant dependability of electric heat. Automatic oven meals, with the timer starting and stopping the cooking, liberates the homemaker from another duty. Electric oven meals have the additional advantage that should dinner be delayed, food will not dry out because the atmosphere in the completely enclosed oven is always moist. Cleaning tasks, too, are lessened when cooking is done electrically.

Swifts, perhaps the fastest flyers of all the birds, are so perfectly streamlined that even their nostrils point backward.

QUICK FUDGE FEATURED BY NANCY BAKER

It's fun to make candy—when it's easy, and the results are always perfect! And there's a product called Quick Fudge on the market which makes the best chocolate fudge in the world, while the directions are so simple and easy to follow that even the very young lady of the household, in her first excited attempts to "cook something good" can't fail to produce delicious, creamy candy that disappears almost before it is cool.

Quick Fudge has been selected by Nancy Baker for use in the cooking school this week, for she has found that it makes not only the most luscious candy imaginable, but also that it has no equal for a quickly-made and never-fail rich chocolate icing for cakes. One of Miss Baker's favorite recipes, she says, is for a sour cream chocolate cake, spread thickly with Quick Fudge icing. She will make the cake this week at the cooking school, and will show the women in the audience just how easy it is to prepare a delicious chocolate icing in a very few minutes from Quick Fudge, an icing that is at once economical and sure to be exactly right every time it is made. After the session is over, some fortunate member of the audience will take the prize cake home to her family as a gift, and there will no doubt be many delighted exclamations over the rich, creamy Quick Fudge icing.

Miss Baker has found through her cooking school experience that chocolate is a universal favorite with young and old alike, and since it is also a splendid source of needed energy, she suggests that it be served often. There is no easier nor more delightful way to serve it than as Quick Fudge for dessert or an after-dinner treat, or perhaps used to add a

Flood Wrecks Express Train, Takes Four Lives

Tragedy rode the flood torrents that dash against the derailed cars of the Chicago-Montreal flyer of the Canadian National Railway, at Ingersoll, Ont. party touch to plain cookies or cup cakes, or in icing an elaborate cake for a company dinner. Miss Baker is sure that any woman who has never used Quick Fudge for making cake icing will never go back to the old, fussy and not always successful methods, and she urges everyone to become acquainted with this modern way of adding efficiency and pleasure to cooking. A large package of Quick Fudge sells for only a few cents, and when it is heated with water and a little butter, it makes enough to ice a large cake, or provide a generous plate of candy.

MISS BAKER WILL CONDUCT COOKERY

An invitation to every woman of Santa Ana and vicinity to attend The Register All-Electric Cooking School starting at the American Legion Hall tomorrow is extended by The Register, sponsor of the event.

Nancy Baker, famous home economist, will direct the cooking school activities, which will include a host of practical suggestions for happy homemaking.

Of special interest will be Miss Baker's demonstrations of the application of electrical service to simplify home routine.

"Thousands of American women are taking 'time out' of their kitchens," Miss Baker said today in discussing the coming cooking school. "They are preparing better meals, yet spending less time in their kitchens. This paradox is explained by the efficiency of electrical equipment. An electric range is a willing mechanical servant, co-operating in every way with the housewife. It even assumes some duties in their entirety, such as automatically cooking a meal in the oven while the woman of the house is far away."

"All kinds of cooking—baking, roasting, broiling, frying, boiling—are accomplished with consistent success on an electric range. And an electric range adds a new method to the housewife's cooking repertoire—steaming vegetables on the surface unit in an ordinary sauce pan. No special steaming utensil is needed, since the constant character of electric heat precludes any possibility of burning. As little as one-half cup of water, with electric heat turned to low, is the formula for this healthful method of cooking."

The U. S. Treasury's "conscience fund" now totals more than $600,000; it consists of money sent in by anonymous persons who repented having cheated the government.

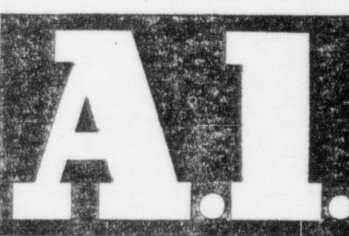

BEN HUR SPICES IN SOUTHLAND POPULAR

Ben-Hur spices have for many years been the most popular brand sold in the Southwest. This great public acceptance has been entirely due to the outstanding quality. Ben-Hur spices are invariably chosen for demonstration—as in the case of this week's Cooking School. In cake baking contests Ben-Hur flavorings are preponderantly used by the winners.

There is a vast difference in the quality of spices, though there is very slight price variation between these best kinds and the inferior kinds. Hence, it is important to the housewife that she knows that in purchasing Ben-Hur Spices, she gets the finest quality procurable.

Ben-Hur Spices are not only absolutely pure and guaranteed full strength—but they are thoroughly re-cleaned before they are ground in the Ben-Hur plant, making them more appetizing and healthful as well as full flavored.

NEW BEN HUR COFFEE FLAVOR WINS APPROVAL

Development of the new and more delicious Ben-Hur coffee flavor is the result of a "progressive evolution," according to E. L. Weaver, sales director of the company and a noted coffee authority.

Ben-Hur coffee—a Southern California product—has been one of the coffee leaders in the Southwest for 35 years. Always of the highest quality within the mechanical limitations of the time, Ben-Hur is reported to have never failed to take advantage of modern developments in curing, blending, roasting and preserving flavor. Today's Ben-Hur coffee is said to be a flavor triumph which has won instant recognition.

Large sums of money have been outlayed by Ben-Hur in this modern development. New methods of curing green coffees, the new "Uniflo" roasters, the modern cased-in method of grinding and the highest point of vacuum-packing are all declared responsible in part for this new Ben-Hur flavor peak. "We are asking all lovers of extra-delicious coffee to give this new Ben-Hur coffee a trial," said Mr. Weaver. "We believe we have produced a flavor and body that rings up a new high in modern coffee manufacture. Besides, Ben-Hur guarantees many more cups per pound of rich and delicious coffee. Today's Ben-Hur coffee flavor is a real and true revelation even to coffee experts who come into our plant to make cup tests."

POMPEIAN OLIVE OIL WINS MEDALS

The first pressing produces only 25 per cent of an olive's oil but that's all that is good enough to be sold under the Pompeian label. Pompeian is pure and unadulterated, and comes to you just as it flows from the olive. It is being demonstrated in the cooking school this week.

Twice Pompeian has been awarded gold medals in international competition. Pompeian also bears the Good Housekeeping seal of approval. It is recommended by more than 9000 American physicians for kitchen and medical use.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR COOKING

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder together at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter, finer texture the cakes, biscuits, etc., will have.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then, to this mixture, alternately add moisture and the flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding beaten egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

For cakes, have your oven slow to moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase the heat, so as to just brown lightly.

Greek fire was an incendiary composition of asphalt, saltpeter, and sulphur. It was used by the Byzantine Greeks and would burn on or under water.

BEN HUR TEAS ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

Ben-Hur teas come into fresh prominence when the summer season opens with the demand for food beverages.

Of the line of many high grade teas packed and sold by Ben-Hur under world-known names, five are especially recommended for food purposes, "Ice Tea," "Jasmindia," "Pure India," "Orange Pekoe and Pekoe" and "English Breakfast." Each one is different in its individual and exquisite flavor, therefore every taste can be satisfied.

Ben-Hur "Ice Tea" has been featured for a number of years. It is a very heavy-bodied black tea which will hold its rare flavor after a quantity of ice has melted into the beverage. "Jasmindia" is a new blend of very fancy tea developed by Ben-Hur and is now one of the largest sellers of the Ben-Hur line. It is a scientific mixing of a fine Jasmine tea blended with a heavy, winy and deliciously flavored India tea, hence the name "Jasm" for Jasmine and "India" for India. Ben-Hur "Pure India" makes an extremely delicious iced tea. It is one of the finest black teas coming to America. Ben-Hur Orange Pekoe and Pekoe is also highly recommended for iced tea. It is a blend of high grade teas gathered in Ceylon and India, and most satisfying when ice is added. "English Breakfast," packed under the Ben-Hur label, makes a grand iced tea, most delighting to many tastes. This tea is a variable blend of black teas on a basis of Congou Tea, a Chinese product.

Waiting for Flood to Subside

One of hundreds of families driven from their homes by storm swollen rivers stands on the bank of the Potomac near Washington D. C., and looks for signs that the flood is getting away from their door. Gathered around the tent are the few possessions (including the womenfolk's precious sewing machine) they were able to save from rising water.

NANCY BAKER ARRIVES FOR COOKING CLASS

Miss Nancy Baker arrived yesterday to take charge of all last-minute preparations in connection with the Register cooking school, to open tomorrow at the American Legion hall.

Miss Baker is most enthusiastic about the forthcoming event, for she feels that her program this spring will be of genuine interest and value to the women of Santa Ana. Said Miss Baker, "I feel that women realize more than they ever have the importance of nutritious, well-balanced meals to the health and consequent happiness of their families. With this thought in mind, I have prepared my program in order to present only up-to-date food information, attractive and wholesome menus, the recipes which will fit right into the well ordered kitchen."

Miss Baker continued, "With the end of the cold winter weather and bright spring days here again, we all want something different to cook and to serve, while the appetites of the whole family seem to demand a change from the heavier foods of winter meals. Food should be lighter and more zestful, stimulating the appetite with spicy, subtle flavors. So the recipes I will prepare during the school have been especially planned to meet the desire for something 'different,' yet not too expensive for the most modest income."

Special emphasis will be placed upon the preparation of well-balanced, yet dainty and attractive dishes, which will be stimulating to lagging appetites, and will fit into the warmer days of the spring season. The program for the three-day cooking school is extremely well-rounded, containing menus, recipes and suggestions for dozens of colorful seasonal dishes, and practical short-cuts to simpler, better cookery. No woman will wish to miss even a part of any of the sessions, and Miss Baker urges every one to arrive early in order to enjoy the classes from the moment the curtain rises until the final prize is awarded.

WEBER'S SELECTED BY COOKING SCHOOL

Home economics experts are especially keen to some of the outstanding features of a certain food product. That is why Weber's Bread was again invited to participate in our cooking school demonstrations.

"One of the features of Weber's bread is its natural creamy color," says J. W. Costello, president of the Weber Baking Company. "We do not use any bleaching chemicals to whiten the flour or any other ingredients of our bread. The milk we use in baking Weber's bread is delivered every day to our bakery from the dairy. We urge housewives to 'buy it, toast it and taste it' to prove to themselves why it holds first place in the preference of Southern California families."

MEAT COOKERY EXPLAINED BY NANCY BAKER

The big free cooking school, sponsored by the Register, will open tomorrow at American Legion hall, and while duties may be somewhat slighted tomorrow in hundreds of homes, it will be because the women in those homes wish to learn better methods of performing these duties, through attending one of the finest cooking schools ever presented here.

Miss Baker, who arrived Sunday in order to supervise personally all details in connection with the school, states that because of the unusual amount of research work with foods during the past year, her program is one of the most interesting and useful she has ever been able to offer to her audience. For instance, she will discuss new methods of cooking meats which provide better flavor with less shrinkage during the cooking, recipes for the use of less expensive cuts, and left-overs, together with the place of meat in the diet.

Meat cookery, however, is only one of the many interesting topics on the program for the cooking school. There will be delightful recipes for new desserts, hot breads, vegetables, and helpful suggestions for every meal of the day; there will be ideas for entertaining that will be welcomed by all women who are planning parties during the spring months.

COOKING SCHOOL PRIZES

Southern California Edison, 1 a la carte electric cooker, daily.

Indeed, Miss Baker will have so much to say of interest and value to every woman, that it is hoped no one who has an opportunity to attend will miss a minute of any of the sessions. And in addition to the delightful program, there will be many attractive gifts, and many surprises not to be announced ahead of time.

Water District Election Called

Election on a proposal to annex territory to the Buena Park water district was set for June 9 by the county supervisors today, when the board passed a resolution introduced by Supervisor Harry D. Riley, granting the petition seeking the election.

The proposal calls for annexation of 44 city lots in the vicinity of Manchester avenue and Western avenue, which would be served with a permanent water supply if annexed.

City Council Goes "Modern" On Law Plan

Santa Ana went "modern" last night as city council gave first reading and adoption to an ordinance aimed at repeal of 56 old ordinances which have been cluttering city records for 101 these many years.

For months, City Attorney Lew Blodgett and Attorney Jack Rimmel, employed in a special capacity, have been working on recodification of Santa Ana ordinances. Some of the 56 ordinances to be repealed were established in 1886, the city attorney said. Final reading of the revising ordinance will be given May 17.

An ordinance to clarify Ordinance 32, dealing with regulation of chickens, goats and other animals within the city limits, and now having so many amendments it is cumbersome, also was given first reading and adoption last night, final reading to follow at next meeting.

GOODWILL HAS OPEN HOUSE AT LOCAL EDIFICE
Today started "open house" at the Goodwill Industries store, 600 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, where the public will be received as guests of the organization for three days, including tomorrow and Thursday.

The Goodwill plant and stock, its methods of operating, and its basic principle of self-help, under which the organization functions as a non-profit employment project, will be shown and explained to visitors during the three-day period.

Special Displays
Special displays of rugs and quilts made by customers from material purchased at the Goodwill store will be shown during "open house." One exceptional piece will be a quilt woven by Mrs. Alice Evans, 80, of 255 South Orange street, Orange.

Music also will be provided for the entertainment of visitors, according to Superintendent George F. Angne, of the Goodwill Industries of Orange county.

Man Nabbed In Wreck Case Held On $1,500 Bond

R. M. Griego, 50, 1021 Fruit street, accused of tampering with a Santa Fe railroad switch at Fruit and Santa Fe streets Saturday morning, was ordered by Judge Kenneth Morrison yesterday to post $1,500 bond for preliminary hearing in Santa Ana justice court. Bail was set at $1500.

Officers Charles Wolford, Santa Ana, and Fred Johnson of the Santa Fe station, who rushed into the Santa Fe station to report a switch locked open, five minutes after the signal changed to red, assertedly admitted he had been attending a dance in Olive and had been drinking. Griego, officers said, went out on strike in 1925, while working for the Santa Fe. "I would like to return to work for the Santa Fe," Griego was quoted as saying Saturday.

Mystery Blaze Inquiry Opens

A mystery fire which burned the car of John Matthews, Long Beach plumbing salesman, and 60 feet of trestle belonging to the Santa Fe railroad company, Sunday, was under investigation of sheriff's officers and Santa Fe detectives today.

Matthews informed employees of the "Z Cafe" Olive, that his car was stolen Sunday night and he found it on the Olive bridge of the Santa Fe, burning. State Forestry department fire fighters extinguished the blaze.

KEN Murray SAYS:
HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Well, the navy's Pacific maneuvers have started. There are about 140 of Uncle Sam's boats divided into the black and white fleets. I guess they call 'em black and white to take our minds off the fact it's the navy that keeps us in the red.

When it comes to spending money like drunken sailors, our nautical profligates grab the silver cup. In fact, it looks like all the major powers figured that recent five-year naval holiday was just a Friday-to-Sunday-week-end, after all.

Well, anyway, 132 battle ships are concentrated around Hawaii and only seven are guarding the Aleutian islands near Alaska. The navy claims this discrepancy in favor of Hawaii is because the whole Pacific would be Japan's oyster if he seized Pearl Harbor. But it looks to me like the admirals are protecting the hula hula girls to the last gunboat, but letting those Eskimo squaws look out for themselves.

THANKS COUNCIL
Council last night received and filed a "thank you" letter from Robert L. Wilson, supervisor of the National Youth administration project having to do with local park band concerts. Wilson revealed his appreciation of councilmanic co-operation in prompt backing of the programs.

JACK OAKIE

of the youngest co-eds in the country. Meyer Alexander's swinging classes have had national recognition.

Oakie college is a modern institution, imbued with the wish to teach the students to take life easy and get a lot of laughs out of living. Our school motto is eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow there may be a law against it.

I'll now stop talking through my megaphone which I wear as president of Oakie college and I'll tell you how I like being a radio comedian . . . that is, I hope I'm a comedian.

It's great. Maybe it's because we run things so informally at Oakie college, but anyway we certainly have a lot of fun. In a way radio is more of a kick than pictures. If anything goes wrong, and it often does, a fellow is really on his own. No chance for a re-take in front of that old microphone. I don't know why, but I never get miffed.

Guess I'm having too good a time during the broadcast to think about being scared.

Makes it mighty nice for me to see Hollywood developing into one of the largest radio centers, because of course Hollywood is home for the Oakes. This way I can work in both radio and pictures without having to be twins.

Speaking of twins, the photographer who took this picture was a little worried about whether he could get this shot into one column in Homer's paper. I'm taking a lot of kidding about being pleasantly plump. The only answer I have for it is: I only did so-so as a slender heart-interest. Now I'm fat comedian and doing better than so-so . . . so what?

The Newport Dredging Company today was awarded a contract to dredge the west arm of Newport bay, the county supervisors passing a motion by Supervisor N. E. West to accept the firm's bid of $7350.

The bid was received a week ago and taken under advisement, no other firm having submitted a bid.

School Board To Award Contract

The Santa Ana Board of Education was scheduled to award a high school painting contract this afternoon at a special meeting called to consider bids opened last night.

The $2400 bid of W. F. Sorenson, of Santa Ana, was the lowest of six bids submitted to the board. Other bids were: William Gelfan $2652; Klaas Brothers $2590; T. A. Rucker $2536.75; D. Wein $3300; E. R. Zielke $2745.

APPROVES POLICY
A $1000 insurance policy to protect Santa Anans and Santa Ana property was approved tentatively by city council last night at request of Doyle McMillin, local house mover.

$3000 SET ASIDE FOR LIBRARY

Supervisor Harry D. Riley, of Anaheim, today finally succeeded in getting a county appropriation of $300, sufficient to insure completion of the branch county library building at La Habra.

A previous attempt to get $600 appropriated having failed, Riley today got approval of a $300 appropriation by a vote of three to two. Supervisors N. E. West and John Mitchell voting against the appropriation, which West said he considered illegal and wrong policy. Riley explained today that Supervisor Steele Finley, "who knows a lot about the working of WPA," had discovered a small balance of WPA funds in the La Habra library project, amounting to $300. The WPA would match this against county funds, said Riley.

Finley seconded the motion and an eye and any vote it carried. Mitchell and West not voting. West then asked a roll call, and

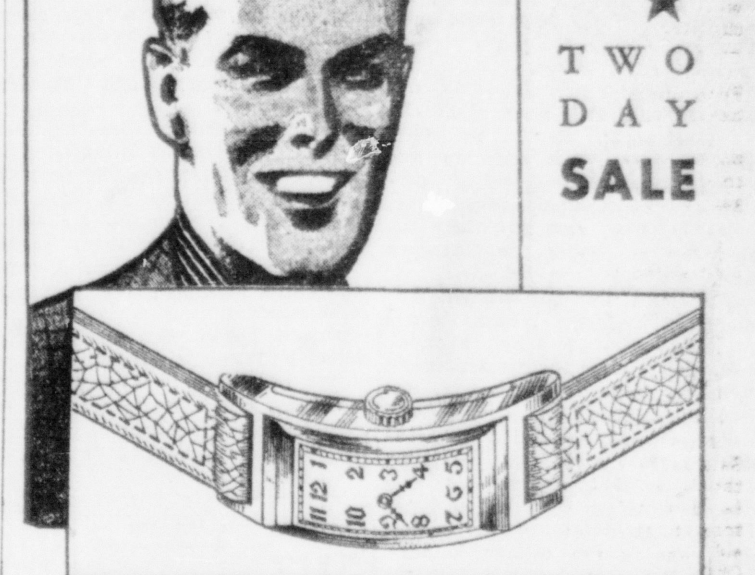

Woman Suffers Skull Fracture

Taken to Anaheim sanitarium yesterday afternoon, with possible skull fracture, Mrs. Hattie Olmstead, Route 1, Box 103, Buena Park, was victim of an accident at Lincoln avenue and Manchester boulevard. Her car collided with one operated by John D. Woodring, Long Beach, whose wife, Mattie, also was injured, suffering lacerations. Seven persons were injured at the same intersection Sunday.

Robert Green, 6, 2010 South Ross, Santa Ana, suffered bruised face and head on St. Gertrude place between Main and Sycamore, yesterday, when his bicycle and a car driven by Oscar Wilson, 44, 1903 Oak, Santa Ana, collided.

The kangaroo was named through a misunderstanding. In 1770 Captain Cook asked a native the name of the animal and the native replied "kan ga roo," meaning "I don't understand." Cook thought it was the name of the animal.

Bird migration baffled nature students of early times. Some authors thought birds buried themselves in mud through the winter, while some believed that migratory birds spent their vacation periods on the moon.

MODERN BUSINESS finds Long Distance exceedingly useful in managing sales forces.

Men on the road, too, have found that they do more business with even their established customers when they call ahead. They prefer appointments and the welcome that awaits an expected friend to the aimless waiting and the disappointments that often await the unannounced traveler.

SMALL COLLEGE SPANS CENTURY

CARLINSVILLE, Ill. (UP)—Tiny and progressive Blackburn College, which for a quarter of a century has pursued a unique "labor and learn" educational policy, today prepared for June ceremonies to commemorate 100 years of educational achievement.

The June centennial also will signalize the 25th year of service by William M. Hudson, president, who has seen his students and faculty living in Pullman car dormitories when flames swept the main building, and pay their tuition by rebuilding the destroyed buildings and dormitories.

Blackburn College enables students of moderate means to obtain an education by allowing them to pay for their learning by "working with their hands two and one-half hours each day." Only monetary payment by students is $25 each.

Each student spends his required working time on assigned tasks in maintaining the school and running the college laundry, bakery, kitchens, farms and in the power plant. All physical facilities are operated by students.

Known for Democracy
Through this plan of keeping students working side by side at manual tasks, the school has earned a reputation among educators for its broadly democratic spirit," Hudson said.

"That the school's reputation has spread throughout the world as well as the nation is evidenced by the fact that the Turkish republic two years ago sent over two students to study at Blackburn with the idea of establishing similar schools in Turkey," Hudson said.

The present student body numbers 255 students. The faculty is composed of 21 teachers and professors. Hudson says that the endowment would be much larger if endowment were increased. Blackburn was forced to turn down about 2000 applicants in 1936, he said.

Following destruction of University Hall in 1927—which came at a time when housing facilities were taxed to the utmost—Pullman cars were lent Blackburn by the Pullman Company, the Chicago and Alton Railroad, and the Standard Oil Company.

Library in Pullman
Not only were students housed in Pullman cars, but university offices and the college library as well.

Student labor was used in rebuilding, as well as in the whole construction. In addition, students completed construction of drives, sidewalks and landscaping for the campus.

Plant and equipment now comprises a modern dormitory for men, one for women, a large class building and chapel, gymnasium, farm buildings, the president's house, and student and faculty residences.

Blackburn College was named for the Rev. Gideon Blackburn, a Presbyterian minister, who in 1837 succeeded in having 80 acres of land deeded to trustees for educational purposes. Twenty years later a charter was obtained. The legislature exempted the property from taxation.

Classes began in a primary school in 1859 and a full collegiate course of studies was inaugurated in 1864. Originally chartered as Blackburn Theological Seminary, the name was changed in 1868 to Blackburn College.

The school is now essentially non-sectarian, Hudson said.

SAFETY RECORD SET BY MINER

STEBENVILLE, O., (UP)—Harry Carrol, 88, of nearby Wolf Run, is prouder of his 75 years in the mines without "lost time" accident than he is of being the oldest active coal miner in the United States.

Carrol has been mining since he was 10 and recently the mining division of the All-Ohio Safety Congress honored him for his no-accident record and named him the oldest working coal miner in the country.

Carrol's no-casualty record almost was toppled March 17—his 88th birthday—when he jammed his thumb. Although the joint of the finger is still swollen, he has never lost a day at the mine.

The hardy miner expects to keep on working just as long as he is able to wield a shovel. He is being closely pressed for the oldest miner "title" by 84-year-old Isaac "Ike" Six, of Nelsonville, O.

"Ike" entered the coal mines at 13 and except for rare intervals on the farm, has mined coal ever since. Like Carrol, he has never sustained serious injury, nor even been confined to bed through illness.

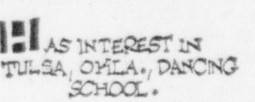

Both men, although eligible for state old age pensions, have declined them.

Nether of the miners has asked or received special consideration because of his age.

Carrol shovels coal in the Warner Collieries at Wolf Run and Six is a leader for the Hocking Valley Mining Company, near Nelsonville.

HOLLYWOOD, May 4. — Bing Crosby's continued sniff of disfavor at studio efforts to entice his wife back to the screen brings to mind the fact that plenty of Hollywood husbands might be better satisfied were their wives to drop careers.

Home versus profession has always been a major colony problem, and as long as the movies hold forth such enticements as gold and fame the contention will remain.

Allan Jones told me just yesterday that while he encourages Irene Hervey in her work, he hopes she will soon tire of it and settle down to being a wife and mother (hopeful man). To Miss Hervey he cites Mildred Davis, Jobyna Ralston Arlen, and June Collyer Brin, examples of wives who found greater happiness in retirement to home life. Irene always counters by pointing to Norma Shearer Thalberg and Frances Dee McCrea, who have made marriage and career blend beautifully.

I do advise Miss Hervey (and other career-wives) to regard the method by which Miss Shearer and Miss Dee made successes of their

I often wonder about the average person's conception of this colony. I believe women expect to see stars and film companies on every corner, while men are skeptical. To sustain this belief, Wendie Barrie relates that she was working on location at the railway station, when a well-groomed man and woman alighted from a trans-continental train.

"Oh, isn't this wonderful!" exclaimed she, as her eyes took in the imposing array of lights, cameras and players in makeup. "Imagine writing home and telling the children we saw a real movie our first day in town."

"Aw, come on," scoffed her husband. "It's probably a Chamber of Commerce trick. I'll bet they keep it going for all trains."

DUELIST SARGA WARNS OFFICER

CASCADE LOCKS, Ore., (UP)—If Dr. Franz Sarga, self-styled Budapest husband-duelist lacks a definite sense of humor, Colin Merrill, Cascade Locks chief of police, may do well to improve his ability with the fencing foil.

It all started as a joke, but when Dr. Sarga decided to take it seriously, the prank turned serious. Merrill wrote to Sarga, asking for advice and instruction in the art of dueling. An immediate answer followed his request.

Sarga's letter said: "I was very glad to receive your fine letter, though I am sorry to say I cannot think dueling could be learnt by correspondence. It needs a man at hand, with sword in his fist! As I am planning to go to the U. S. A. in the future, I think I could manage to give you lessons personally of European fashions. As your letter attests it, you must be a pretty tough man too, and I like pupils like that."

"As I see, you must not care about King Edward now for he was unpolite enough not to accept invitation to your burg. As for me, you must not fear for your local queens, myself having my own wife with the blade of my saber."

"My adventures will soon be published in the U. S. A.—I hope you and your fellow citizens will eagerly read it. At having an opportunity, I would be awfully glad to visit your town, if it really consists of such he-men as you seem to be. Besides, you could teach me in exchange how to fight more adversaries in your good old western fashion. Very truly yours,

"Dr. Franz Sarga."
Reports are that Merrill is taking daily workouts with his fencing foil and that he is becoming an able antagonist. Sarga is an ardent follower of the old Teuton school of saber fighting.

SURVEY CALLS FOR RESODDING OF DUST BOWL

MANHATTAN, Kas. (UP)—Dust storms were reported on the plains of the Southwest even before the country was settled, and they never can be entirely eliminated, according to Prof. R. L. Throckmorton, of Kansas State Agricultural college, who is preparing a drouth report for the department of agriculture.

"No one expects the blowing of dust on the plains can be entirely stopped," Throckmorton said. "Dust storms were reported in western Kansas long before the country was settled and they will probably always continue."

In 1850, according to Throckmorton, the Rev. Isaac McCoy, a missionary to the Indians, crossed Kansas and reported encountering a severe dust storm. Weather reports at Dodge City, Kas., in the early 1890s record similar storms—and that was before the land was put under cultivation.

Grow Worse With Years
"However," Throckmorton said, "the plow and recent drouths have increased the dust problem immensely. Grass is a natural solution if a successful way of growing sod on dry, sandy soils can be found."

Perhaps the most successful way for farmers to prevent soil erosion by wind is to plant sorghum, grass or other "cover" crops in place of wheat, Throckmorton believes. If the land can be resodded, dust storms will diminish appreciably.

"It is not generally known," Throckmorton said, "that not all the sandy soils in southwestern Kansas were in buffalo grass originally. Many areas were covered with blue stem grass—the same variety of grass which covers the Flint hills grazing area of Eastern Kansas."

One trouble in connection with resodding the drouth areas, according to Throckmorton, is that of obtaining supplies of wild grass seeds in sufficient quantities.

As a "compromise method" Throckmorton suggested that farmers plant a sorghum crop early in the summer and leave it unharvested so the seed will shatter on the ground and possibly start a volunteer crop the next year.

Other Grasses Suggested
Then buffalo grass stripping and black gramma seed can be scattered over the area, the sorghum roots holding the soil firm until the grass gets started.

Once the area has been resodded successfully, Throckmorton said, it would be extremely unwise to put it in cultivation again, even in wet years. If individual farmers are unable to keep the land out of cultivation, then the government should buy it and keep it as part of the public domain.

The present widespread practice of listing fields to prevent the soil from blowing is regarded by Throckmorton as merely a temporary experiment and has no part in a long-range program of soil conservation.

Throckmorton is a member of a committee appointed in 1935 by the Department of Agriculture to make a survey of drouth conditions. Other members of the committee are A. E. McClymonds of the government soil conservation service at Colorado Springs, Col., and James C. Foster of the Resettlement Administration at Amarillo, Tex.

First Register-RKO Auditions To Be Held Tomorrow

ALL ROADS LEAD TO REGISTER'S COOKING EVENT

All roads may have led to Rome in Caesar's time, but tomorrow all roads will lead to the Santa Ana American Legion hall, where the Happy Kitchen Cooking school, sponsored by The Register, will open promptly at two o'clock, with Miss Nancy Baker, nationally known Home Economist, in charge.

Miss Baker has planned her programs to make the most of every minute on the platform, and the two-hour lectures seem all too short to those who are fortunate enough to be able to attend.

The ease and rapidity with which she prepares tempting dishes, and arranges complete menus will be a delight and revelation to her audience, and a source of inspiration to all. She will discuss such topics as the cooking of vegetables without water, low temperature roasting and baking for oven-cooking of foods, preparation of dainty yet inexpensive desserts, and will explain these short-cuts in meal preparation in a manner that will make every woman appreciate their simplicity and practical application in her own household.

Fashions Change

As Miss Baker points out, fashions in foods change just as do fashions in dress, houses, or modes of living, the modern trend being toward simple, healthful, yet appetizing menus, with not a great deal of heavy, elaborate food. Miss Baker will give the basic principles to remember in planning these simple, more attractive meals, considering always the moderate budget, and the needs of the family.

She also will discuss balancing meals from a health standpoint, and many other subjects of paramount importance to home makers everywhere.

In addition to these worth while discussions, there will be many attractive prizes each day, and from every indication, this will be the finest cooking school ever held in Orange county.

TWO CRIME DRAMAS OPEN AT STATE

Two action-filled melodramas will comprise the double feature screen offering at the State theater for the two days starting Wednesday, "Sinner Take All" featuring Margaret Lindsay, Bruce Cabot and Joseph Calleia, and Preston Foster, Ann Dvorak and John Beal in "We Who Are About to Die," will be shown together with a short subject, "19th Hole Club."

"Sinner Take All" is the story of a millionaire and his family threatened with death. He and his son are murdered despite precaution. A former reporter, now a lawyer, joins the editor of a newspaper owned by the dead millionaire in an effort to get the killers.

A police officer who resigns from the service in order to aid the girl he loves in saving her sweetheart from the gallows, furnishes an unusual romantic complication in the screen drama, "We Who Are About to Die."

Preston Foster portrays the courageous plain-clothes man. Ann Dvorak is seen as the object of both men's affections, and John Beal is the unfortunate suitor sentenced to hang for a murder he did not commit.

CASH SCARCE THESE DAYS IN CLOTHING, CLEANERS REPORT

By BOB SWANSON

"Ah, for the good old days..." That's what local cleaning store managers sighed yesterday when asked if they found valuables in the clothes brought to their establishments.

"It used to be all right," said one cleaner, "but everything's different now. In 1929, we used to find a lot of money, sometimes as much as $300 in one sum. But now we're lucky if we find 50 cents."

The same experience was reported by the manager of the Arrow Laundry, who said the highest sum he ever found was $146. Now, however, nickels and dimes are unusual.

Not that the cleaners would keep large sums—because the owner naturally would come for it anyway, but such discoveries added to the zest of the game. Now the typical discoveries are combs, handkerchiefs, golf tees and false teeth. Some people also clutter up their pockets with old bottles, springs, bolts, electric light bulbs, valve stems, clothespins and nails.

Hmm! Interesting

Letters, both of the business and personal kind, are abundant. The business letters usually are bills.

The manager of the Atlas Cleaner and Hatters has a series of love letters written on the back of casher checks from the Green Cat cafe. Signed Violet, the series closed with the admonition to be sure and "have some beer tomorrow. I will try to get rid of Al."

Location in the screen drama, "We Who Are About to Die."

CALLING all DOGS

By Albert Payson Terhune

FEARS, AGAIN

Years ago I sold a fluffy golden collie puppy to a dear little old-fashioned lady. The next month I found a letter from her, saying how much she loved the little dog, but that there was "one terrible thing about him" which I ought to know. Namely, that when she had given him a bath she had "found a FLEA on him!" I wrote back that it must have been a very incomplete bath, as, otherwise, she would have found at least a dozen fleas on him, perhaps many more than that.

If you have only one dog, and if you keep him in the house or on paved streets or in a neat park or back yard most of the time, and if you use eternal vigilance and care, you may possibly keep him more or less free of fleas. But if you live in the country and he is allowed (as he should be) to wander at large in woods and in fields in summer, he will acquire a new stock of fleas almost as fast as you can get rid of the older crop.

Your carefully de-flea-ed dog rolls in the grass or he brushes against the leaves or he lies on the earth. And at once the new colonies of fleas which abide there, begin to infest him. Keep down their numbers all you can. That is the best you can do.

30 To Face Test Work At Walker's

With more than three-score applications already filed with Walker's theatre here in The Register-RKO arrangement, whereby a resident of Santa Ana or Orange county will be entitled to a bonafide screen test, plans were completed today for the first auditions on the stage of Walker's tomorrow night.

According to Harold Simpson, who is working with R. M. Conklin, circulation manager of The Register, and Vic Walker, manager of the local theatre, it is planned to examine 30 applicants each evening.

Urges Speed

"Depending entirely on the speed with which the applications are left at the theatre," Simpson said today, "it is possible that there will be three auditions instead of two, as originally planned."

The test on the stage tomorrow night will be followed by another series of auditions a week from tomorrow evening. These affairs will be under the direction of David Smith, well-known RKO director.

"It makes no difference who you are, what you are doing, or what you look like—you still have that big chance to crash the films," declared a message from Smith this morning.

"And for today's example, we'll point to the manner in which Barbara Stanwyck became one of the outstanding queens of the film colony."

Pattern Cutter

"Barbara's real name is Ruby Stevens—just to start out right on the story of her ascension to the firmament."

"She was born in Brooklyn, New York, of Scotch-Irish parentage. In her school days, she engaged in athletics and dramatics."

"Her earliest ambition was to be a dancer like Isadora Duncan, but beside never having money to take lessons, she received no encouragement."

At the age of 13, she worked for a telephone company. Her next job was as a pattern cutter.

She joined the chorus of Ziegfeld Follies, and later was in George White's Scandals.

"While in the chorus of a revue in New York, she got her first real chance. Producers of 'The Noose' wanted some cabaret girls for small parts and Barbara was chosen."

"Next season she was given the role of Bonnie in the play 'Burlesque,' and that established Miss Stanwyck as a leading Broadway actress."

"When in 'Burlesque' she made her first screen test and promptly received a contract. She enjoys screen work, and prefers it to the stage because it makes home life possible."

PIGSKIN TO POLITICS

Senator Lynn Frazier and Representative William Lemke, of North Dakota, played on the state university football team together.

BLOWS OWN HORN

Wally Hally, lightweight boxer who recently defeated Baby Arizmendi, is a former Salvation Army trumpet player.

STANWYCK STRUGGLED TO WIN

Uphill struggle with little encouragement at the start finally brought Barbara Stanwyck to film stardom. She operated a phone board and cut patterns, but made her way into the stage chorus, and her reward was Hollywood.

EDISON FIRM FINISHES BIG MOVING TASK

Completion of one of the biggest individual moving jobs ever undertaken in Southern California, transferring approximately 500 tons of electrical transformers and equipment in preparation for the interconnection of power between the Southern California Edison Company and the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, was announced today by Fred B. Lewis, Edison Company vice president and general manager. Installation of the equipment at the company's Magunden switching station, near Bakersfield, now is in progress.

Transported at an eight-mile an hour rate by Southern Pacific railway from the Edison Company's Vestal switching station 40 miles north of Bakersfield to the Magunden station, six miles south of that city, the $255,000 shipment of three heavy transformers, hoisting equipment and tank cars of transformer insulating oil arrived safely at its destination. The equipment was handled like the proverbial basket of eggs.

Boilder Dam Power

The three transformers, each of 25,000 kva. capacity and each weighing 135 tons in operating position, were each emptied of their 15,500 gallons of oil and stripped down to 30 tons each for the 46-mile train trip. Each transformer stood nearly 17 feet high above the bed of the special flat cars built and furnished by the Southern Pacific for the job.

Through the facilities of the interconnection about July 1, the Edison Company will be enabled to make available to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company a portion of the generating capacity of the Edison Company's Big Creek-San Joaquin River hydro-electric plants. The Edison Company will utilize Boulder Dam power to meet a portion of the needs of its Southern California system.

When the new interconnection is completed, the Pacific Coast will be supplied with a continuous network of high voltage transmission lines extending from the Mexican line to the Canadian border.

LOCAL DE MOLAYS TO STAGE PICNIC

Santa Ana De Molays will be host to Southern California counselors, advisors and athletic associations at a picnic and outing at the Irvine park, May 23.

This date was selected because it is the last Sunday of the month and the regular meeting time for these groups which meet annually on Decoration Day.

A picnic is being planned strictly for DeMolay families, that is the De Molay members and their advisors.

The committees preparing for this event are to be appointed at the first stated meeting. All those attending are expected to furnish their own food.

DRAMATIC ALLURE

A flowing cape of black chantilly lace is worn over the Jean Patou gown of white satin and novel design. A killed panel encrusted at the back of the skirt is cut away in a rounded effect in front. The slash thus created is partly veiled by a pleated panel that depends from a frill of black lace at the waistline. Note the unique decollete.

The Mixing Bowl
By ANN MEREDITH

Perhaps you have noticed how eager dogs and cats are for fresh grass in spring. Instinctively they seek the thing they need to condition their bodies (so 'tis said). Maybe that is why salads, and more salads, taste so good to us when the first fresh green vegetables and fresh fruits come into the market.

For use with vegetable salads or salads using shell fish, you will be sure to like this grand Russian dressing.

Heat a can tomato soup in double boiler. Blend 2 tablespoons butter with 1 heaping tablespoon of flour and stir into the boiling soup. Cook 15 minutes, remove from fire and beat in a few grains of cayenne, sugar and salt and let cool. Add tarragon vinegar until dressing is sufficiently tart, then 2 tablespoons of finely minced pimiento (canned) and finely chopped celery or parsley. If the dressing seems too thick, thin it down with a little pineapple juice and thick sour cream. The recipe makes enough dressing for twelve salads.

A good recipe and stamped, addressed envelope, gets you the big Calory List, today.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Skillet Corn Bread
Sift 1 cup yellow corn meal with 1 teaspoon, each, soda, salt and sugar.
Add 1-2 cup uncooked oatmeal and mix with hands.
Beat 2 eggs, combine with 2 cups buttermilk and 4 tablespoons melted bacon fat.
Kill two birds with one stone, or maybe three. Have hot bread for breakfast, the makings of a cereal and a family satisfied with a good breakfast.

Fry some bacon in your biggest iron skillet (the one you use for steak). Take up the bacon, measure out 4 tablespoons of fat for the bread, drain the pan, put it back into a hot oven to keep that way for the batter.

Mixing the batter is simply putting dry ingredients into a bowl, adding the wet ingredients and wielding a wicked spoon for two minutes. Spread smoothly in sizzling skillet and bake about 15 minutes in the hot oven.

To serve: Turn cake, bottom side up, on a hot serving dish, strip with bacon and serve with coffee and syrup. I think four hungry people might eat the whole cake.

For meatless meals try this luscious sauce on baked potatoes or the first new potatoes.

Cheese Sauce
1 bunch leeks, sliced, parboiled 10 minutes, drained and sautéed in butter for 15 minutes. Add to leeks and butter, 2 cups rich milk, bring to boil and thicken with 1 tablespoon cornstarch.

Stir in 1 cup grated cheese and season to taste with salt, pepper, paprika, dash of cayenne and Curry powder (about 1-8 tsp.).

Church Societies

First Baptist

Hospitality typical of the Old South was extended by women of First Baptist church Friday night when they completed their husbands at an annual dinner party in the church dining room. Mesdames R. E. McBurney and John Newcomer were in charge of arrangements.

The theme of "Moonlight and Roses" was carried out in decorations, which were supervised by Mesdames Kenneth King and Lawrence Coffman. Pepper boughs were suspended from an effective sky, and the walls were lined with silhouettes. Miss Irene Catland had fashioned the hand-blended placecards designed with showboats.

While more than 200 guests assembled, Mrs. R. M. Warren gave a program of organ music. In the receiving line were Miss Lulu Minter and Mesdames Harry Owings, Fannie Reeves and Warren Brakeman. During the dinner hour southern melodies were sung by the group, with Mrs. Charles Nalle as song leader and Miss Mame Havens at the piano.

Miss Minter extended welcome, and Franklin G. West responded on behalf of the guests. The Rev. Harry Owings gave a short talk. Introductory to a varied program was the sounding of a steamboat whistle as the curtains rose on the stage for an original performance of the well known radio program, "Show Boat." Mary Batten Steffensen officiated as musical director; May Rose Borum, director of dramatics. Continuity was written by Miss Borum; music composed by Mrs. E. R. Robinson, piano; John Swanick, saxophone.

Program

Leslie Steffensen officiated as Uncle Henry. The following program was given: A solo, "When My Dream Boat Comes Home" by Royce Edson and ensemble, a solo, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," Miss Mary Nalle; "L'Amour, Toujours, L'Amour" (Frml), Mary Batten Steffensen; "That's Why Dardies Were Born," Russel Crouse, and a solo, "My Rastus," Richard Robbins; a solo, "Laud, You Made the Night Too Long," J. Leslie Steffensen; "Old Man River," Horace Rittner; a duet, "Will You Remember," sung by Mary Batten Steffensen and Russell Crouse, and a solo, "My Hero," by Victor Herbert.

The program concluded with a skit by Janet Robbins, Oa Swanick, Katherine Siden, Dorothy Dennis, Florence Course and Mary Batten Steffensen, whose "advice to Mary-Lou" was in the form of jokes dedicated to guests.

Plans for the entertainment were made by Mrs. W. A. Atkinson and her committee, Mrs. J. Leslie Steffensen, Mrs. John Swanick, Mrs. Kenneth A. King, Mrs. Lawrence Coffman, Mrs. Fannie Reeves and Miss May Rose Borum. Mrs. John Swanick was in charge of publicity.

Bridegroom and Bride
Of May Day to Live
In Costa Mesa

Miss Olive Payne of Costa Mesa and Eugene Albert Riches of Newport Beach, son of Mrs. James Leslie of Bakersfield exchanged vows Saturday before the Rev. Father Patrick Beary, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel in Newport Beach.

The bride chose for the ceremony, a princess frock of white net over satin with a fingertip veil held in place by a Juliet cap and a double roll of pearls framing her face. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies and orange blossoms tied with white satin ribbon. Her "something borrowed and something old" was a sapphire ring loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Leroy Anderson of Costa Mesa, a close friend of the bride. Maid of honor was Miss Mary Elizabeth Grupe, attired in yellow flowered chiffon with matching picture hat, and carrying an arm bouquet of mixed blooms. Harry Lane of Newport Beach was best man.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Leo Payne, was gowned in duobonnet print with white accessories and a corsage arrangement of gardenias.

Reception

A reception for 165 friends and members of the two families was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Payne, where the tiered bridal cake was cut by the young couple and served with fruit punch by Mrs. George Merrick and Miss Ethel Gill. The home had been decked with ferns and roses in pink and bridal white.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Riches left for a short trip to Coronado, the bride selecting for traveling a beige sharkskin suit with duobonnet accessories. She wore with the ensemble an orchid corsage and strand of pearls, both gifts of her bridegroom. They will return the latter part of the week to a home all in readiness for them at 182 East Eighteenth street in Costa Mesa.

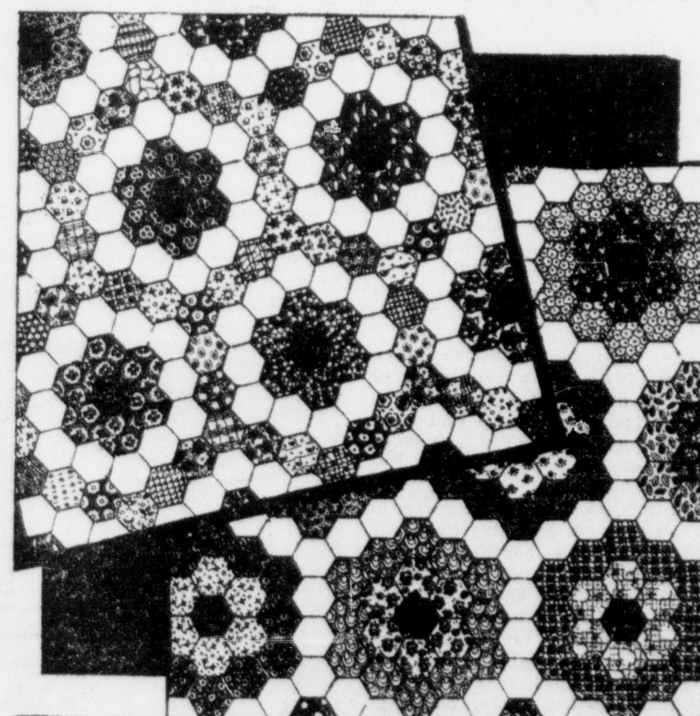

Both Mr. and Mrs. Riches are graduates of Harbor Union High school, the bride later graduating from Johnson's Business college, and the bridegroom continuing his education at Pullerton Junior college. Mrs. Riches obtained her early schooling at St. Joseph's Academy in Anaheim. Mr. Riches is employed by the Shell Oil company in Costa Mesa.

UNEXPECTED MAY OCCUR; AND OFTEN IT DOES AT CORONATIONS

By MORRIS GILBERT
NEA Service Staff Writer

British rulers have not always been as mannerly and upper-crust as the present reigning house, and coronations not always as high-toned and genteel as the approaching one should be.

Some coronations, in fact, have been pretty rough. Tragedy has dawned with the great day of crowning, more than once. "That hollow crown," which Shakespeare says, "rounds the mortal temples of a king," has sometimes surrounded a powerful headache, too.

And once in a while, through the centuries, a touch of low comedy has muscled in amid the pomp and dazzlement, as if to prove that even royalty is subject to an occasional kidding.

William the Conqueror, at his coronation today in any German beer garden. Jewish homes made good bonfires, too.

William's marines landed to establish order, and did so with swords, battleaxes, and other unfriendly tools. The slaughter was considerable, and then the troops tried a little arson. Pretty soon, a sizeable section of London was blazing merrily.

Meanwhile only William and a few priests were left inside the Abbey and the ceremony was finished before practically no witnesses.

Triple Ceremony
Richard the Lion-Hearted seemed to like being crowned. It got to be a habit with him. The first time was at Westminster in 1180. Fearing that, like vaccination, it hadn't taken or had worn off, he was crowned again 11 years later. This was on the island of Cyprus during the Crusades. Just to make it good, he did it all over again in Winchester when he returned to England.

His first coronation was the worst because of the massacre that accompanied it. The persons who were massacred were Jews, the Crusaders of those days being as resolute anti-Semites as will be.

"God bless you, my son," says King Edward VII in a precedent-making episode at his coronation. The son became revered King George V.

Crown Was Makeshift

Most pitiful of all coronations was that of Henry III, at the age of 9 years in the year 1207. England was a prey to anarchy, armies of France were invading the land, only a few nobles still surrounded the little king. The crown and royal jewels had been lost by the late King John in fording the Wash, an estuary of the North Sea. Speed seemed so essential that the forlorn little band supporting Henry decided to have him hastily crowned at Gloucester with a simple fillet of gold. As it turned out his was a long, if inglorious, reign.

The great Elizabeth was crowned under somewhat similar national conditions. England being then much disrupted and threatened from abroad. But her coronation procession was triumphant, she won the hearts of Londoners, and aus-

Richard I, to prove that it was only by his own consent that the church should crown him, lifted the crown from the altar and handed it to the archbishop.

He then commenced his magnificent rule.

Charles II's Reign

At Charles II's coronation, the king himself had to separate the royal coachmen from the Lords of the Cinque Ports who were indulging in an unseemly brawl for possession of the royal canopy.

When George IV (Beau Brummell's "fat friend") was crowned, the day was made hideous by the screams and evolutions of Queen Caroline. George and Caroline had been separated for years, he had lost a suit to divorce her, and she turned up at the Abbey determined to take the place her rank entitled her to. George had ordered her barred. She was. For a long time she diverted and irritated loyal subjects outside the Abbey by her vociferous efforts to get in. Finally she drove away, her plumes defiantly nodding.

Had Better Luck

Nicer manners set in with Victoria. She was the belle of her own coronation, a bewitching apparition to the assembled multitudes who didn't know what to make of being ruled by a girl of 29. One unforeseen episode occurred. Overcome with years and emotion, old Lord Rollo rolled down the steps of the throne on his way to offer homage to his sprightly sovereign. She leaped from her chair, lifted the ancient noble, accepted his allegiance at the steps, and seated herself again, all with such natural grace as endeared her to all hearts, the chronicle tells.

Her son, Edward VII, repeated this kindly, simple act when the then Archbishop of Canterbury seemed on the verge of collapse. And Edward added a homely, paternal touch of his own when he was seen to kiss the cheek of the Prince of Wales, later George V, and press his hand during the ceremony of receiving homage. "God bless you, my son," he said.

There is a certain poignancy in the record that George V gave a similar fatherly blessing when his own eldest son knelt before him. No doubt it all seemed simple then. Little Edward in turn would sit in that high place, would receive the fealty of a great people, would commence a long and no doubt glorious reign! How could a loving father imagine the untoward events which were to make that boy a virtual exile from his own land, an absentee from the throne which was his by long heritage, from that coronation ceremony where he might have been the unique and shining figure!

Flock of Trouble

A hat, disturbed by so many people being in church, circled around the head of Richard the Lion-Hearted during his Westminster coronation. It was an evil omen. When Richard, on that same occasion, himself lifted the crown from the altar and handed it to the archbishop it was also considered bad luck. Richard wanted to prove that it was by his own consent that the church would crown him. Churchmen, jealous of their prerogatives, shook their heads.

The most jealous churchman of all, however, was that archbishop of Canterbury who functioned at the coronation of the queen consort of Henry I. Seeing a crown on the head of the king he abruptly snatched it off. He imagined, the historian explains, that "his right to put on the monarch's crown had been infringed."

It wasn't a bat, but another bird, which troubled the superstitious subjects of Victoria on her coronation day. Flying in majestic sweeps around the palace, it caused a shudder of dismay. Then someone discovered that it was a goose. All was well. The omen of a goose is hardly evil, whatever it is.

ever about the realizable and utilitarian value of those yellow insects down in that Kentucky hole in the ground—either now or a thousand years from now. There are several billions of dollars that can be deducted from the New Deal debt at any time this government wants either to coin them or to issue irrevocable warehouse receipts against them, or to buy the products of any country under the sun.

What would happen if the government should now suddenly increase the gold content of the dollar by, say 25 per cent. First it would lose between 2-1/2 and 3 billion dollars—pouf, just like that! It would increase by 25 per cent the burden of all debt on all the debtors including its own debt, shatter the price of export farm products, cut off perhaps one-quarter of our exports, destroy our favorable balance of trade, give all other countries an advantage in world commerce, probably knock the bottom out of our recovered price structure, ruin agriculture and precipitate another crash.

There isn't much danger of that. It would cost too much, including a wreck of the New Deal.

FOSSILS SAVED IN BLACK HILLS DINOSAUR AREA

BY G. FREDERICK MULLEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—Fossils of one of the richest petrified forests ever uncovered soon will be arranged in a national museum to be built in the Southern Black Hills of South Dakota.

Prof. G. B. Wieland of Yale university, international authority on fossil plants, said the museum will be erected in the center of an area which includes the most complete of all Northern American petrified forests. He has fully investigated the area, which he early filed under the homestead laws to insure protection for the fossils. He later surrendered his equity when congress voted it a national monument.

In the area were found formations 120 million years old or more dating back to the age of dinosaurs. Included in the discoveries were petrified "flowering cycads" whose modern relatives are the rare Chinese maiden-hair tree and the so-called "sago palm."

May Disappointment Layman
Final development of the museum will cost $65,000, Wieland estimates. Without it, the visitor would not see anything but the scenery. "After all," he said, "the visitor need not go there, as many have done, expecting quickly to find and take away valuable specimens. Except for some accidental fragment meaningless to the layman, nothing is to be seen at the surface fulfilling the untrained conception of petrified forests."

Recently, with the aid of CCC help, quarrying brought to light more than a ton of additional specimens. These were found just as they were left in their final resting place of a hundred million years ago.

"Unbroken, unbroken, of specific type, nothing approaching such a collection in one place has ever

It Seems to Me by HEYWOOD BROWN

I was sorry to hear of the death of William Gillette, because he was the first serious actor I ever saw. My first play was a musical show about a French maid. Father seemed to like it all right, but I didn't quite get the drift of the plot, and so I asked for something weightier.

Accordingly, we went next week to "Secret Service." That would have been about 40 years ago, but then, and to his dying day, William Gillette was the complete master of what is known as modern acting.

In later years they told me that no one would ever realize what naturalism on the stage could be without seeing Duse. I saw Duse. She was old, and I was not so young dramatic critic who spoke no Italian. But granted these handicaps, it seemed to me that the famous hands of Duse waved like those of a musical maestro and that she orchestrated each line.

HE DIDN'T SEEM AN ACTOR
No, for my taste Gillette was the least actor person who ever backed away from the footlights. Of course, he appeared for the most part in highly theatrical vehicles. Probably "Secret Service" would be laughed at today, but certainly it gripped the attention of my father and me.

Fortunately, I never saw it in been seen before in the course of the even hundred years during which the cycadeoids have been known as fossils," said Wieland. "Rightly displayed in the field museum planned for the monument, this material alone will offer a singularly fine exhibit."

"There is a wealth of lesser leafed, branched and more generalized columnar types so highly instructive in tracing relationships and in proving how these plants, as fantastic as the cushion vegetation of the tropics or high mountains, may yet be traced through to their small-stemmed relatives, much like the present day magnolia."

Vital To Chemists
While the specimens themselves are of interest to the biologist and geologist, the process of petrification is also of special relevancy to the chemist, Wieland believes. The greater value are only to be gained by exhibition and study of these ancient plants exactly as and where discovered.

"Without development and display the Fossil Cycad museum can mean but little, as a mere blurred shadow, all but lost again in the shuffle of time," said Wieland. "When it comes into view a panoramic beauty, educational values of the highest and all that fuller realization of those far-away landscapes of dinosaur times, without some understanding of which we may scarce expect to learn or know life and ourselves."

Designs for the museum were drawn by advanced students in the department of architecture in the Yale school of fine arts. The designs "show once and for all that the place for the monument display is on the monument itself and that there alone may a primary display be set to full advantage," according to Wieland.

It is quite possible that he purposely chose rans that when he was assembling a melodrama cast, for he was always the quiet one in the midst of tumult. Even when they had him trapped in the death chamber in "Sherlock Holmes" he hardly spoke above a whisper.

It was, of course, a triumphant whisper, for they followed his lighted cigar which he had stuck in the far corner of the room while he corporeally slipped out the door.

And I remember the night he opened in Barrie's "Dear Brutus," bringing out with him for each curtain call a little girl who was brilliant in her performance.

And now Helen Hayes is playing Victoria and William Gillette is dead and time flies, but I think I can still see the red glow of a cigar even though Sherlock Holmes has slipped out the door.

Bees do not get honey from flowers. They get nectar, which they transform into honey by adding certain enzymes. These convert the complex sugars of the raw nectar into simple sugars, known to chemists as dextrose and levulose.

PICTORIAL FORECAST OF CORONATION PAGENTRY

Imagine the stands at right filled with colorful throngs, gay with bunting and royal insignia. Then you will have an idea of what the big coronation spectacle will look like to the average Londoner, for pictured is the state coach passing through Parliament square in a rehearsal of the big procession. Throngs line the curbs and in the background is the famed Big Ben clock on the Parliament building, whose eyrie will afford one of the best views of the procession.

COUNTY SOLONS HEAR PLEA ON NURSE PROJECT

That Orange county is one of the only six counties in the state which do not cooperate with the state social security organization in granting aid to crippled children, under the social security set-up, was brought to the attention of the county supervisors today by Mrs. J. D. Campbell, of Tustin, secretary of the League of Women Voters, who appeared with Mrs. W. T. Kirven, of Garden Grove, on behalf of the home nursing project under the same set-up. Mrs. Kirven is state director of child welfare for the P. T. A.

Supervisors N. E. West and Harry D. Riley, the board's committee on the nursing project, said they were not yet ready to recommend regarding it, but probably would do so next Tuesday. West today expressed hesitancy to start the program unless there was reasonable assurance that it could be carried on.

Cites $1000 Fund
Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Kirven thought that it was worth while even for the one year for which funds were assured, but West said he thought the reaction if it was halted would be worse than not having it start.

Mrs. Campbell called attention to the $1000 appropriation that had been authorized by the supervisors for crippled children benefits, and then cancelled. She had found, on a visit to social security headquarters in San Francisco, that only six counties were not cooperating. She also discovered, she said, that Orange county had been authorized by the supervisors for crippled children benefits, and then cancelled. She had found, on a visit to social security headquarters in San Francisco, that only six counties were not cooperating.

The nursing project would supply two nurses in Orange county for maternity nursing service in homes not eligible to county hospital benefits, but was not able to finance private hospitalization.

Supervisor Riley explained that absence of Dr. Harry Zaiser, of the county hospital, had been unable to complete his own investigation of the matter.

The women assured him that the women's organizations interested have more knowledge of the matter than Dr. Zaiser has.

NEW FARM UNIONS FORMED IN MEXICO

MEXICALI, Baja Cal., May 4.—(UP)—A confederation, composed of newly formed individual farm unions, designed to protect small ranchers and agriculturists, was being organized here today.

More than 11,000 colonists and ranchers, encamped on the plaza of the government palace in a protest against the application of agrarian policies, formed the nucleus of the group.

It is the intention of the organizers of the individual unions, which will represent all of the various fields of agricultural endeavor, and cattle raising, to serve as a permanent co-operative marketing agency, as well as guaranteeing protection to members.

Senate Gets New State Bar Bill

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—A bill aimed at raising standards in the legal profession, already passed by the assembly, was before the senate today after action by the upper house judiciary committee.

The bill by Assemblyman Ralph L. Welsh, Los Angeles, would require two years of pre-legal college work as a prerequisite to examination for the state bar examination.

Persons over 25 years of age or those who began study of law before July 1, 1937, would be exempt from the proposed act.

County Approves WPA Job Boosts

The county supervisors today approved extension of two WPA projects and referred a third back to WPA for further data as to local costs.

One of the approved projects was a furniture and toy repair project employing 51 elderly men, for which the federal government will contribute $38,850 and the county $1438. The other was a project for rebinding and repairing county library books. WPA's share to be $31,728 and the county's $1800. This would employ 40 workers.

The third, referred back to WPA, was a proposal for similar work in district, school and hospital libraries, which would contribute the sponsor's share, $3600, with WPA contributing $78,950.

SEEK REPEAL OF GIN MARRIAGE LAW

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—Repeal of California's three-day "gin marriage" law was proposed in a bill given a pass recommendation by the assembly judiciary committee today.

The bill, by Assemblyman Earl D. Desmond, Sacramento, would end the present three-day wait between the issuance of a marriage license and the wedding ceremony.

Contractor Files Answer to Claims

H. F. Garland, local contractor, today answered the charges of two employees who, with two others, charged him with failure to pay wages owing, by filing small claims actions against them. L. E. Rallis claimed Garland owes him $20 wages; L. B. Heaton said he has $3 coming; F. H. Heaton, $3, and C. Cruz, $2.25. Garland filed actions to collect $7 from L. B. Heaton and $3 from F. H. Heaton.

"They owe me that amount," Garland said. "I have paid these men a total of $13,700 since I have employed them." Garland faces trial June 9, 9:30 a. m., before Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court.

9 Instructors At Berkeley Retire

BERKELEY, Calif., May 4.—(UP)—Retirement of nine distinguished veterans of the University of California faculty was announced today by President Robert G. Sproul. The retirements will become effective July 1. They are: Dr. Carl C. Plehn, professor of finance; Dr. Charles A. Noble, professor of mathematics; Dr. Henry R. Hatfield, professor of accounting and statistics; Dr. Clifton Price, associate professor of Latin; Dr. Joseph N. Leconte, professor of mechanical engineering; Charles E. Ruthen, professor of education; Dr. Derrick N. Lehmer, professor of mathematics; Dr. W. L. Jepson, professor of botany, and Charles M. Titus, associate statistician.

Power Board Asks Rate Jurisdiction

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(UP)—The Federal Power commission demanded today that congress give it full jurisdiction over rates or relieve it of "any responsibility" in connection with the $75,000,000 Bonneville hydroelectric project on the Columbia river.

The commission, in a report filed with house rivers and harbors committee, criticized two bills, introduced by Rep. Martin F. Smith, D., Wash., and Rep. Nan Wood Honeyman, D., Ore., for failure to provide clear cut control over Bonneville rates.

Under both bills, the power commission would have power to veto rates but could not change them.

PULITZER BOOK PRIZE AWARDED

NEW YORK, May 4.—(UP)—The Pulitzer prize committee appeared to have avoided controversy over its annual awards today by selecting Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" as the "most distinguished" novel of the last year and "You Can't Take It With You," by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, as the "most distinguished" play.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university announced the awards last night at the annual dinner of the alumni of the school of journalism. The committee's choice of "The Old Maid," by Zoe Akins, as "the best play of 1936" was vigorously disputed.

Other awards have been criticized. Kaufman won the prize once before with "Of Thee I Sing," a political satire with music. The award committee selected "Flowering of New England," by Van Wyck Brooks as the most distinguished book on the history of the United States, and Allan Nevins' "Hamilton Fish, the Inner History of the Grant Administration," as the most distinguished biography "teaching patriotic and unselfish service to the people."

Nevins' biography, "Grover Cleveland," won the award in 1933. Robert Frost received the poetry award for the third time in his career, with "A Further Range." Five reporters who covered the tercentenary celebration of Harvard university shared the $1000 award for the most distinguished example of a reporter's work. They were: John J. O'Neill of the New York Herald Tribune, David Dietz of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, William L. Laurence of the New York Times, Gobind Behari Lal of Universal Service and Howard W. Blakeley of the Associated Press.

Anne O'Hare McCormick, a member of the editorial staff of the New York Times, received the $500 prize for the most distinguished foreign correspondence.

SIT-DOWN STRIKERS ATTACKED BY JUDGE

KANKAKEE, Ill., May 4.—(UP)—Persons believing in sit down strikes were barred from obtaining citizenship papers today under a ruling by Circuit Judge W. R. Hunter.

Judge Hunter asked six applicants for naturalization papers whether they believed in sit down strikes. Each replied in the negative. In a subsequent lecture to the applicants, Judge Hunter said:

"Sit down strikes are a form of anarchy and are violations of the law. Such strikes can, and should be punished."

The judge asserted that he would refuse citizenship to any applicant "who answers 'yes' to that question."

BAR CIO MEMBERS FROM PARKER DAM

PARKER, Ariz., May 4.—(UP)—Armed guards of the J. F. Shea company, Los Angeles, arrested contractors today held striking Committee for Industrial Organization members three miles from the project they sought to picket.

The guards enforced strictly a company rule requiring passes signed by company officials. None without them was permitted beyond the line.

Meantime, American Federation of Labor members, who have been opposed to the strike from the beginning, went to work without interference from the strikers.

Leahy, chief of naval operations, today urged the senate naval affairs committee to authorize the construction of six auxiliary vessels at an estimated cost of $48,000,000. Leahy also asked the committee to approve an authorization for modernization of the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga at a total cost of $13,700,000.

BAKERS IN K. C. REMAIN ON STRIKE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—(UP)—The full force of a bakers' strike was approaching this area of 750,000 persons today and housewives prepared for it with biscuits, muffins, homemade cake and plain corn bread.

Bakeries in small towns were doing a rushing business. Neighborhood groceries and restaurants entered the bakery business on a small scale. Stores that prepared for the shortage were sold out. Long lines of customers cleaned their shelves in short order. Then those who couldn't buy their usual bread, went to specialty shops to buy Italian, French and Jewish loaves.

Operators had no plans to open their bakeries until the strike is over. Bakers are demanding a $5 increase a week in wages and a 40-hour week. Most of the operators have offered $3 a week additional. The Weintraub company granted a $6.67 rise, the original demand.

SLOAN IS ELECTED NEW G. M. CHAIRMAN

NEW YORK, May 4.—(UP)—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., replaced Lamont Du Pont as chairman of the board of the General Motors corporation today after a general shakeup of the high executive personnel which reduced the representation of Morgan and Du Pont interests in executive capacities in the company's affairs.

The shifts brought to the top of the corporation many of the men who participated actively in settling the prolonged United Automobile Workers' union strike in General Motors plants last winter. A common dividend of $1 a share for the first quarter was declared, payable June 12.

Succeeding Sloan as president of the corporation was William S. Knudsen. Lamont Du Pont declined re-election as chairman because of other business responsibilities. Donaldson Brown, formerly vice president and chairman of the finance committee, was elected vice chairman of the board.

MARTIN ATTACKS NEW LABOR PLAN

DETROIT, May 4.—(UP)—Homestead Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers' union, split with Gov. Frank Murphy today over proposed legislation to give the state control over industrial disputes.

The union leader, who had praised Murphy's activities as mediator in the strikes called by the union during the winter, vigorously attacked the governor's proposed law as "the first step toward fascism."

Martin's chief objection was to a provision that would limit the rights of labor to strike until a state board of industrial relations had attempted mediation.

Big Army Bomber At March Field

MARCH FIELD, Riverside, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—One of the army's huge "flying fortress" bombers arrived here at 8:30 a. m. today from Langley Field, Va., flying the last leg from Barksdale Field, La., non-stop.

The plane carried 11 persons on its flight, including five enlisted mechanics.

After a brief stopover here, the plane leaves tonight for Maxwell field to participate in air maneuvers there.

WILMINGTON OIL ACTION IS URGED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—Legislative action to protect the state's rights in oil properties at Wilmington was urged by George Nordenholt, state director of natural resources, today.

Returning from an inspection of gas and oil activities in Southern California, Nordenholt said he believed legislation would be necessary to protect the state's holdings at one of the largest oil producing areas in the Los Angeles basin.

His recommendations led to predictions that within the next two years the Wilmington oil situation may repeat the Huntington Beach fight over proposals to develop tideland oil deposits by means of wells drilled directly into the tideland.

Oil experts here said it was probable that important deposits of oil existed under the Wilmington tidelands, and that the field could be tapped by means of wells slanted from lateral lands—in the same manner as some 85 wells are taking oil from the Huntington Beach tidelands.

ARMY CADET DIES IN PLANE CRASH

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 4.—(UP)—Paul M. Palmer, 22, cadet at Randolph field, was killed today when his airplane crashed while he was practicing landings. Palmer, whose home was at Carlinville, Ill., reportedly was practicing side approaches to the field when his plane lost altitude, slipped into a spin and fell. Palmer died in a hospital a short while later of a fractured skull and numerous other injuries.

Police News

Frank A. Fuller, 47, Los Angeles, yesterday began serving a 30-day county jail term after conviction of drunk driving.

Following an alleged fight, Emilio Magana, 39, Placentia, was arrested and jailed by Officer Horace Lucy of Placentia, on charge of assault with deadly weapon, early today.

Assault and battery complaint was filed against George Fletcher, 50, Newport Beach, and he was jailed here last night by Newport Beach police.

Police, at 2:50 a. m. today, found a car belonging to Carl Gunn, Tustin, who reported it stolen from in front of 908 North Olive, at 1 a. m. The car was located at Sixth and Broadway.

Following an accident Sunday afternoon at Washington and Bristol, in which Joe Padillo, Corona, was slightly injured, Vivian M. Wheeler, 38, 2012 West 17th, Santa Ana, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging reckless driving. The complaint was signed by Francisco Guillen, Corona, driver of the second car involved. Mrs. Wheeler was ordered to appear in city court here this afternoon. She was released on her own recognizance.

Pictured here is 12-year-old Reginald Costello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Costello, Midway City, who last week won first place in a contest sponsored by the Woman's Civic Club of Midway City. Entered with 40 other contestants, Reginald won first award with his saxophone on the basis of tone quality and technique. He is a pupil of Julian D. Mathews, a student at Frances Willard junior high school, and has been playing a saxophone for only 15 months.

Must Fill Two Board Vacancies

TUSTIN, May 4.—With one vacancy each on Tustin high school and grammar school boards of education, County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson's office reports W. F. Armstrong, Prospect avenue, has filed for the grammar school position. Trustee J. J. Woodward, whose term as grammar school trustee is expiring, does not plan to file for reelection.

On the grammar school board, the term of W. J. Pollard is expiring and it is believed that he will file for the place again.

WIFE CONTINUES STRIKE

LONGMONT, Colo., May 4.—(UP)—Mrs. Genevieve Johnson entered the 10th day of her alimony sit-down strike today in front of the home of her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Johnson, with whom her estranged husband, Ralph, lives. She is demanding $6.70 a week separate maintenance which she says Ralph refuses to pay.

FOUR DAIRYMEN HELD IN MODESTO

MODESTO, Calif., May 4.—(UP)—Four dairymen were taken into custody today for resisting an officer as Stanislaus county authorities resumed enforcement of compulsory bovine testing ordinances.

The veterinarians, accompanied by 10 heavily armed deputies and headed by Sheriff Grant M. Hugin, selected the Rose Ranch, one mile west of here, to resume the testing. Rose called to his two sons, Floyd, 28, and Merle, 25. They started driving the herd out of the shed.

The officers took the three men into custody and booked them at the county jail. Veterinarians rounded up the cattle and finished the testing.

They then went to the M. J. Bettencourt ranch near Salida and again met with resistance. Bettencourt was also taken to the county jail.

The veterinarians started their testing yesterday, but were forced to retire when at the ranch they elected to resume testing, a crowd of 350 dairymen gathered and voiced threats against the officers.

President Is Hostess To Club

GARDEN GROVE, May 4.—Members of the Help One Another club met recently for their April Mystery party at the home of the president, Mrs. Mertie Brown, in Stanton. After mystery packages had been distributed, games were played and a business session conducted. Mrs. Clara Holliday, work chairman, reported that several quilts had been made.

The hostess served refreshments to the following: Mesdames Minnie Baker, Estella Jones, Grace Crist, Nellie Jesse, Dana Sargent, Sylvia McDonald, Marion MacIntosh, Blanche Brintnall, Ruth Bennett, Ella Lindem, Paloma Freeman, Bertha Slate, Rhoda Stanlake and a guest, Mrs. Brown. The meeting on May 13 will be held at the home of Mrs. Stanlake.

IMPRESSIVE NOTE IS SOUNDED BY EVANGELIST HERE

"Our supreme need as individuals, as a city, as a state, and as a nation, is a return to the old fundamentals of Christianity upon which our nation was originally founded."

This was the main point of Mayor Fred C. Rowland's address at the opening this week of the Bible Auditorium in the 1800 block on South Main street. He gave a warm welcome to the evangelist and his helpers.

Police Commissioner Bruns also was present at the opening meeting. He stated that although this Bible Auditorium was scheduled to remain in Santa Ana but a few weeks, it was his hope that at the close of that period, it might be possible for the sponsors of the evangelical program to extend their stay.

Dynamic Personality
The opening meetings have been of a unique character. From the moment the curtain rolled back, revealing the large massed choir under the leadership of George Freeman, to the closing remarks of Evangelist R. Allan Anderson, there was not a dull moment.

The dynamic personality of this much-traveled evangelist, could be felt in every word of his stirring addresses of the past week-end, members of the congregation reported. On Friday night, in speaking of war-torn Spain and Mussolini's programme in the Mediterranean, with the possibility of this leading to world revolution, the speaker drew from his references to prophetic the forceful conclusion that Christ's return to this world as King of Glory is an imminent fact, which no student of present events can deny.

Films and Music

"They shall not cleave one to another" were the seven prophetic words found in the second chapter of the book of Daniel, which were used by the Rev. Mr. Anderson on Sunday night to prove that Mussolini's plan and ambition to rebuild the old Roman Empire could never succeed. "The next universal kingdom," he declared, "will be that set up by Christ at His second coming."

Sound films and music preceded each meeting. Altogether it was a propitious beginning to these evangelist meetings.

APPOINTMENT CONFIRMED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 4.—(UP)—The state senate today confirmed Gov. Frank F. Merriam's appointment of Harry Lutgens, director of institutions, as a member of the state personnel board succeeding Finance Director Arlin M. Stockburger, whose term on the board expired recently.

CIVIL WAR PRESIDENT OF CHILE

THREE the security of his young nation was threatened during his leadership, and all three times Don Jose Joaquin Perez succeeded in bringing Chile through more strongly united than ever. Born in 1800, famous as a diplomat both in Paris and Buenos Aires, Perez became president of Chile in 1861.

Hardly had he taken office when the Araucanians, controlling central Chile, seceded almost at the time another great secession split the United States. But Chile's rebel leader was arrested, and the revolt ended.

Then, in 1864, came war with Spain, on behalf of Peru; the Spanish fleet was defeated and Chile won greater prestige in South America. Later, from 1868 to 1870, Perez fought the marauding Indian tribes of Chile, and when he retired in 1871, he had won additional safety against further Indian raids. He died in 1890.

Chile has honored Perez in stamps, with special issues of 1911 and 1934. The latter is shown here.

Sshh! More HOLLYWOOD MYSTERY WOMEN!

Time was when movie producers spent a large bankroll to exploit a new foreign importation—but here are four ladies from overseas, and Hollywood's head men are actually secretive about them

Ariane Borg, the French girl whom the M-G-M people speak of as "another Elisabeth Bergner."

By Jeannette Meehan

HOLLYWOOD

If you're a male you won't have to be persuaded to look twice at this fair foursome that has captured Hollywood's goat. Sigrid Gurie—from Norway.

Franciska Gaal—from Hungary.

Ariane Borg—from France.

Della Lind—from Germany.

What an influx of accents that is!

They've been in Hollywood for many months, and under contract all that time, too—but not one of them has ever appeared in an American-made picture! Yet they've just been announced, almost simultaneously, for four of the most important feminine roles of the current season. But what you and I know about the girls you could write on a toothpick—and that's something of a phenomenon in this publicity-conscious province.

Now what have we here? Even Garbo and Dietrich were photographed in short panties before they started all this mystery stuff. Why, one can remember the time, about five years ago, when Hollywood was full of "importations," all of whom were publicized within an inch of their chins. (Remember Samuel Goldwyn's million-dollar campaign on Anna Sten?) Time was when two hot romances, lunch twice a week at the Brown Derby and a sizable file of publicity pictures were just part of the mill for a "new face" of six months' standing.

But the producers seem to have done an about-face with Sigrid, Franciska, Ariane and Della. Has Hollywood jumped back across the fence and are we to have a deluge of "mystery women"?

FOR the "cause of coverage" this interviewer talked to so many accents and looked at so many tests of foreign actresses that it's a wonder the story isn't being written in an accent. But the land lies in a new way and the facts are pretty interesting, particularly in the case of Miss Sigrid Gurie, now under contract to Mr. Samuel Goldwyn.

Now Mr. Goldwyn likes publicity. Yet, since Miss Gurie arrived in Hollywood eight months ago, not one line of copy concerning her has gone out from the publicity department—as per Mr. Goldwyn's explicit orders! He gave other orders—just as extraordinary. Miss Gurie has never been in America before. He signed her as she was and, contrary to Hollywood's usual policy, he wanted her to stay that way. No one, he specified, was to dye her hair or pluck her eyebrows or make-up her mouth where there wasn't any mouth.

She was not to appear at night clubs. She was to live alone (with only her maid). She was to be kept away from people and make as few acquaintances as possible. She was to have no dramatic coach or lessons in English. Mr. Goldwyn doesn't want her to lose her accent and, he says, she doesn't need dramatic lessons.

Now suppose you want to see her portraits? There are only about a half-dozen pictures of her in the entire studio. Why? Well, because Mr. Goldwyn wanted to establish a "still personality" for her and he threw three "sittings" out before he was satisfied. If you ask for "informals" or leg-art, you're informed that there aren't any and there won't be any.

What! No leg art!

Now suppose you want an interview? Sorry—no soap. Mr. Goldwyn forbids.

Such a stand may be part of his "protective" campaign, or it may be his canny way of inviting curiosity about his protegee. At United Artists they swear it's the former. But in any case, it was only after three telephone calls, two discussions and one argument (I think it was those two big words I looked up in the dictionary that did it) that this department was allowed to talk to Miss Gurie one sunny morning at 11 o'clock. And this we do know, that it was her very first interview.

AFTER having conjured up a picture of the sophisticated beauty of a Dietrich, Miss Gurie is something of a shock.

She isn't beautiful and she's not very pretty. She's of medium height with natural brown hair and she wears very little make-up. She dresses simply and neatly and she's a little shy. But when she speaks, and especially when she smiles, it's like turning on a light.

The same thing happens when she appears in front of a camera. If you look at her test in scenes from "Farewell to Arms," "Reunion in Vienna," and "Morocco" (and very difficult ones they were, too) you discover that she can be equally convincing as a voluptuous demimondaine, as a woman of well-bred charm, and as a love-sick girl. No wonder Mr. Goldwyn is so fussy about her career.

Sigrid Gurie was born in Oslo, Norway (Sonja Henie's home town). Her family were well-off and Sigrid enjoyed a continental education. She studied art, music and drama and she speaks four languages.

She decided to become an actress at the age of six, but her scandalized family saw to it that she studied painting instead. But she never gave up her dramatic studies and when she returned to Oslo from a finishing school in Brussels she was offered the lead in "The King's Heart," Norway's annual pageant-play.

Her performance so captivated one of Mr. Goldwyn's talent scouts that a long distance telephone call to the producer himself, then in London, resulted in a contract for Sigrid. That's how she happens to be in Hollywood.

She's so placid about the restrictions prescribed by her boss that one wonders what a year in Hollywood will do to her. She frets about only one thing—she's dying to get to work.

Della Lind, say the experts, has the best figure in all Hollywood. . . . At the right is Franciska Gaal, whom Paramount expects to be one of the boxoffice bets of the year.

What? No leg art?

It won't be long now, because Mr. Goldwyn has just given her the lead opposite Gary Cooper in "Adventures of Marco Polo"—a picture in which, according to the script, she kisses Mr. Cooper 144 times. (Imagine getting paid for that!)

OVER at Paramount there's a bewitching little girl named Franciska Gaal who has been under contract with that company for six months.

Although she doesn't labor under such a strict list of "don'ts" as Mr. Goldwyn hung on Miss Gurie, she has had no build-up, which

(Copyright, 1937, by EveryWeek Magazine)

Sigrid Gurie . . . her hair is not to be dyed, her eyebrows are not to be plucked, and her accent is to be left as is.

box-office bets of the year.

No statuesque lady of poses and attitudes, Franciska Gaal is 115 pounds of spontaneous combustion. She's five feet three inches tall, has wavy auburn hair and light brown eyes. She's forever in motion; forever laughing. One could say that she has a "static allure."

She's married—to Dr. Francis Dajkovich, a polished gentleman who is supremely proud of his wife.

OVER at M-G-M we find Ariane Borg and Della Lind.

Miss Borg, like the others, is being kept a deck above the press agent's typewriter, and like Miss Gurie, this was also her first interview during the many months she has been under contract.

Miss Borg was born in Roubaix, France, the daughter of Clemence and Elie Derveaux, both writers of some note on the continent.

Although she was educated for a career of letters she had always wanted to be an actress, and at last she found the lure of the footlights too strong to resist.

She came to M-G-M in a rather roundabout way. After seeing her performance in "Tovarich" at a London theater in 1935, D. W. Griffith signed her to appear in a remake of "Broken Blossoms." The picture never materialized, and after a few months Mr. Griffith sold her contract to the Pickford-Lasky company and she was sent to Hollywood.

Before she got a chance to face a camera, Mr. Lasky and Miss Pickford agreed to disagree and her contract was sold to M-G-M.

She lives quietly. She seldom goes out socially. She seldom goes to the studio. She has had no fashion sittings, no gag pictures, no interviews, and people at the studio seldom speak of her—all for a purpose. The front office is speaking of her in whispers as "another Elisabeth Bergner."

NOW we come to Della Lind, who became an actress for two reasons. First, because her family forbade her to. Second, because she wanted to.

She was born on June 19, in Vienna—"but must I tell the year?" Her family were famous in the theatrical world. She was educated in private schools and traveled extensively. Her life was gay and brilliant and there was no question of money. Then her father lost his fortune and Della went to work. A screen test in Berlin started her career.

Two years ago Paul Kohner saw one of her European vehicles and urged her to come to Hollywood. She did, and her tests resulted in a long-term contract. She was at Paramount for six months without ever making a picture. Then she signed with M-G-M, where everybody is pretty excited about her prospects.

She can speak six languages and can fly a plane. She hates card games and loves anything purple. She's a vegetarian. She's blond, pretty as a picture, and has the best figure in Hollywood. And she is married.

DRIVE CAREFULLY - SAVE A LIFE -

PARKING METERS

Decision of the city council to install parking meters in Santa Ana for a trial period of 90 days or more, at no cost to the city, seems to be a fair one and one that should meet the approval of both merchants and citizens.

The plan has been under discussion for some time. Many arguments, both for and against, have been set forth and it is our belief that the experiment should either prove the worth of the plan or bring out sufficient opposition to warrant the council to order the meters taken out.

Laguna Beach, a beach city that is so crowded in the summer months that it is impossible to get parking space within six blocks of the heart of the city, has decided to install the meters. Long Beach already has done so and the merchants are loud in their praise. Persons visiting the city declare they have little or no trouble finding parking places.

Santa Ana has nothing to lose in making the experiment with parking meters. If the people want them we can keep them and money taken in during the experimental period will be used on the purchase price. If the people don't want them, it's an easy task to get rid of them.

Great inventions are made practical only after experimentation.

A MOST SERIOUS AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL ERROR

In talking with one of the principals of the Santa Ana public schools, in regard to books explaining the fallacies advocated by Rugg, the principal contended that only a few pupils could grasp such a book and for this reason there was no such book used.

In a very enlightening article in the May Atlantic Monthly written by Frederick Winsor of the Middlesex school, he points out very clearly that the condition of which he writes exists in the American schools and to his knowledge in no other schools in the world.

The author explains that for the first six grades it does not make much difference whether the student, with a turn of mind that has ability to reason, is in the same class with the student who can only memorize. He contends that sometimes the brilliant students have poor memories and the dull students sometimes have good memories. For this reason, there is not much damage; but after the sixth grade, when the pupil is supposed to develop his reasoning qualities and has no opportunity to do so, the great damage comes.

He points out that because of the belief in America children are all born equal and none, therefore, should be given educational advantages which are not open to all, we do society as a whole a great damage.

The author's conclusion as to the damage this kind of an educational system results in, is expressed as follows:

"Here and there devoted teachers will be found who will give extra time and attention to the brighter pupils, and try to provide them with mental pabulum ('food, sustenance') into which they can get their teeth, but such efforts can be only sporadic, and in the main the minds of the gifted pupils will grow dull, their vision will become blurred, and hundreds of thousands of the potential thinkers of the next generation will acquire the habit of looking to others to do their thinking and form their opinions for them."

This statement seems to be absolutely logical, as it is axiomatic that what we do not use, we lose; and the brilliant pupil who is not forced to use, or is not given an opportunity and encouraged to use, his reasoning qualities very frequently never develops them.

The author goes on to say, "I have no means to suggest for the testing of character and ambition except to say that hardships and the necessity of overcoming obstacles are essential factors in the development of both character and ambition, and that an education which presents no obstacles and is shorn of difficulty is as poor an education as I can imagine for the gifted child from the point of view of its effect on his character."

Probably this is the reason why many of the brilliant students in school make such a poor showing in after life. They need not work hard when they are in school and they do not get the habit of strenuous mental exercise and their brains become atrophied.

The waste of the abilities of our big men, is the greatest waste we can have.

The author says, "In America, we teach for the bottom 10 per cent; in Europe, they teach for the top 10 per cent. A teacher here is concerned for the dull pupil, and moves heaven and earth to ensure his promotion. I think we feel that if we can teach the dull the bright will learn anyway. In Europe the teacher whose pupils win honors in academic competitions is the one who ranks high in his profession."

If the author is right in his reasoning and contentions, it is certainly a scathing indictment on American educational institutions.

WHY ADVERTISING

H. A. Batten, president of N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., national advertising agency, in speaking before the Association of National Advertisers said the best way of telling the story of business to the public is through advertising.

He said, "If I had something vitally important to tell the public, I should not rely wholly on editorial columns of the newspapers and magazines to tell it."

"I should turn to the advertising columns and there I would tell my story—when I wanted it, without a line of it left out or a word changed."

The best thing about paid advertising is that the advertiser, as the above points out, is not obliged to curtail his story or omit important points and conditions that need to be stressed. When important matters need to be presented to the public, the paid advertiser can have his story exactly as he wants it and it does not need to be edited by any biased opinion of an editor either because of lack of space, haste or lack of understanding.

The advertiser is the boss, when it comes to what he wishes to say, when it is paid for.

POLITICAL! POLITICAL!

The paramount trouble with our economic condition is that it is too political. We have political money, political credit, political taxation, political schools, political favoritism, political monopolies, political restriction of production, political tariffs, political prorates, political collective bargaining—and now we want more complete political planning.

The errors in these social functions are enslaving us and keeping us in poverty. We truly have too much politics. The natural laws governing life have little opportunity to function with so many wishful laws violating fundamental principles.

ENGLAND'S BORROWING

The report that England had difficulty in selling its war securities is rather alarming; especially so, since England has been balancing her budget.

It is reported that 80 per cent of the loan last week had to be taken by government subdivisions.

Here in the United States, we simply give the banks authority to take the bonds to the Federal Reserve and get the money for them. England probably will have to adopt the same method of diluting the purchasing power of her money.

INTERESTED IN WHAT?

A radio philosopher expressed a truth little realized by most people. He said the only thing in which you could get most people to take any interest was to assure them it was something that was absolutely none of their business.

If we could only be interested in what is truly our business, we would have some chance to get along.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

TROTSKY'S FAMILY

From Portland Oregonian

Leon Trotsky stood next to Lenin in the control of Russia so long as Lenin lived. Trotsky had command of the army, and he determined, in large part, the terrorist methods of the dreaded secret police, generally known as the OGPU. It would be impossible to determine how many tens of thousands of persons were executed, and how many scores of thousands were banished at his order or with his approval. Under the circumstances, there is much that is retributive in what has happened since.

Trotsky is now an old man—exile from Russia, a wanderer who has found refuge, at least temporarily, in Mexico. Since his arrival in Mexico there has been a series of public trials in Moscow, in the course of which the Russian government has accused various of its prominent members of conspiring with Trotsky for the overthrow of the communist regime.

To counteract these charges, Trotsky has asked that a commission of "liberals" be named to hear the testimony. He proposed that if these liberals should find him guilty of the charges made by the Russian government he would return to Russia voluntarily for trial and punishment. The commission was selected, under the chairmanship of Professor John Dewey of Columbia University, and for some days past it has been meeting in the home of Diego Rivera, the Mexican artist, in Mexico City.

The particular incident of this hearing to which we would call attention took place the other day when Trotsky told the commission of the soviet system of punishing the families of men who are accused of treason. It is this system, he said, which explains the confessions made by men on trial. They blurt out ridiculous confessions in order to save their families.

Then Trotsky went on, in moving tones, to tell of his own family. There is his first wife who shared a Siberian exile with him years ago and is now in exile again. There is his son Sergei, who is reported in custody for a "mass poisoning" plot. Lastly, there are, or were, his two daughters. Both are dead. One killed herself when she was separated from her husband and children. Trotsky gasped with pain and suffering as he told all this. His hearers were moved to tears with him. Yet did Trotsky, in the days of his power, have mercy on other families which were suffering quite as much as his own has suffered since then? Then it was all for the cause. Then it was too bad but a matter that had to be established. The old regime had to be liquidated and all who belonged to it or sympathized with it. Trotsky and his associates would not listen to the prayers of the wives of the traitors, to the cries rising from the dungeons, and to the last words of those facing the firing squad.

It is one more illustration of an ancient paradox. The physician speaks calmly and objectively of having "cauterized" the wound of a patient. But let the fire get near himself, then he yells out and says he has burnt his finger.

Register Clearing House

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register:

In your issue of April 29, "Mrs. C. G." tries to state the case of the "Private Schools" in favor of Assembly Bills Nos. 2340 and 2342. She gives her case away when she says:

"Parents have a constitutional right to educate their children according to the dictates of their conscience, etc."

This shows that the evident purpose of these "private schools" is not primarily educational, but the perpetuation of certain peculiar beliefs. Really, they believe in education only up to the point where they can make "good Catholics," "good Jews" and "good Protestants" of their pupils. And these two bills would tax us all to perpetuate religious beliefs which we do not share. This is the main point and purpose of these bills.

The public schools, without interfering with "religious beliefs," are secular schools, established for the purpose of educating the children of American citizens in the duties, privileges, responsibilities and loyalties of their national heritage. It trains them to provide for themselves and their families in a competitive business and industrial world. Our public schools are not concerned with the extremely controversial beliefs of the countless sects, which, if permitted in the curricula of our public schools would soon result in a Donnybrook of warring sectarians.

If the personally directed "conscience" of all and every grade of intelligence, leading in some extreme cases to crime, is to be the measure of their allegiance to the state, they thereby classify themselves as owing an allegiance to something or someone higher and above the state. Clearly, the predominance of this personal "conscience" in the affairs, duties and responsibilities of citizenship would speedily wreck any state.

It is a misnomer to call these "private schools" educational institutions. They are "religious" institutions. For, to quote "Mrs. C. G.," "Parents have a constitutional right to educate their children according to the dictates of their conscience."

This emphasis on "conscience" and the "teachings in these private schools" are responsible for the huge fortunes of Althea Semple McPherson, Mary Baker Eddy, the Ranting, Billy Sunday and "Father Divine" (God) and the thousands of "religious" impostors and adventurers who become wealthy by playing upon the ignorance of their deluded followers, who, in consequence become less desirable citizens because less reasoning citizens.

If it is a hardship for the advocates of "private schools" to pay school taxes, it is just as hard on the millions of good citizens of undivided loyalties, who have no children of their own and who yet pay taxes for the education of other people's children and do not whine about it.

The Public Schools have no sectarian axe to grind. They are open to all loyal citizens who wish to use their educational advantages, regardless of religious beliefs.

If it is really EDUCATION the private schools are after, here it is in full measure in the public schools on the same terms and conditions as for all other good citizens. If it is RELIGION with its loyalty first, to a directed conscience, and secondarily to their country, then they must suffer the conditions they themselves have created. They have their rights as a minority, but must not be allowed to over-ride the equal rights of the vast majority.

Bills Nos 2340 and 2342 are pernicious and should not pass.

H. W.

Dear Editor:

Now I know this is putting my head in the lion's mouth. But I may act as a decoy until you get your wind after the bombardment Mr. Walker gave you.

Such language—polemical, incantation, Sophistry. Of course, you do not need me to defend you and it is over my head anyhow. There is no use to say that what schooling I received was by walking some three miles to a small one room native lumber school house with a hard-fisted school master who believed in doing manual labor to help his meager salary, and my old dad never encouraged me in any idea but what I would have to work for a living, so you can see I got a poor start in life.

After wandering around some sixty odd years with the fixed idea that I would have to provide for my old age security, I find myself within the income tax bracket, this would not be so bad if we income tax payers were not put on the rack once a year by the Sharpless Walkers that wrote the schedules, penalties and gadgets that we must meet. It would be better to commit burglary or murder than to make a misstatement or an unintentional mistake. I was told at the tax office to get a tax expert if I asked, if a man was capable of working up to an income tax could not also be able to fill out the thing.

Well every place I have lived there have been Sharpless Walkers. We now have them in Washington. It is their innings one hundred percent. And they are just too bad if the Fords, Rockefellers and the Mellons should be put out of business, this crowd would lose the inspiration for their theme song.

Now I did understand some of Mr. Walker's article, the one about filling the pipes with beer by the whetstone seller, and it reminded me that just a short time ago the Master Whetstone seller, from his radio soap box told us the same thing; well now we have it, and it was promised that it would cure all our ills, reduce taxes, take care of the poor, and what have you. In fairness to Mr. Walker I will try to save him a lot of hard work delving through encyclopedias and looking up references, quoting authors and figures. He is privileged to call me whatever he chooses as it will be over my head anyhow, and I concede it in advance so there is no use casting his literary pearls before swine.

In concluding I suggest you give space under a heading, Wooster and Walker, purveyors to his Majesty, the motto I take from some kind of a Worcestershire sauce good for all kinds of salads, roast meat, steaks, chops, etc., probably income taxpayers also.

If this is published I shall retell my verbal bombproof cellar where I was in my armor of literary ignorance I feel secure.

Yours very truly,

W. H. CROCKER, Costa Mesa.

P.S.: Mr. Editor, I do not wish to tire or bore you but I know some of your subscribers are stopping their paper on account of a ten cent raise or the price of a glass of beer. Most of these people lend their sympathy to any labor demand for increase in wages, but forget that a raise like high water, it travels right along and then the shoe pinches.

Yes your delivery boy makes some twenty-six trips a month to my place and then has to call to collect, something under three cents per trip. Now they raised the price of gasoline on me but I go right merrily along and fill the tank every few days to the tune of some two dollars each time. The socialistic blacksmith where I get some work done doubles the price of material whenever there is a raise, and so on down the line. Your trouble is modesty you should double the extra cost and pass it along. It only costs forty or fifty cents to see an indifferent picture show, but who is quitting? W.H.C.

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Ma took me up on the Avenue to buy me a pair of rubbers on account of one of mine having holes in it and the other one being lost, and we went passed the big drugstore and there was a bewty looking lady in the window pretending to shave a wooden dummy with a funny looking razor and holding up a sine in her other hand saying on it, Marvoly Convertible Razor. One Twist of the Wrist Converts It from a 2 Inch Safety to a 6 Inch Old Fashion Razor.

What for, ma? I said, and ma said I'm sure I don't know, but unless I'm highly mistaken your father will come home bearing one of them. Any gadget in any store window is easy prey for him, she said.

And tonite when pop come home he had a little oblong package, ma saying, Now Willyum Potts what have you got now?

Why the accusing voice? pop said. This is still a backward capitalistic country and the prisoner is assumed to be innocent until he is proved guilty, he said, and ma said, I know what you're bringing home without you telling me.

The dooce you do, how do you? pop said, and ma said, Because I'm a crystal gazer, just watch me. And she went and looked through the side of the goldfish bowl, saying, What's this I see? I see a jossling crowd outside a drugstore window. And who's this, the blizzest jossler of all?

OUR CHILDREN

THE LEVELING PROCESS

"Ma, can't I have one of those?" "One of what?" "That. That thing that John has. Can't I have one?"

"Why child, that is a slide rule. Little boys don't need slide rules." "I want one. Why can't I have one? John has one. Why, Ma, Why?"

"For pity's sake, John, why can't you keep such things out of sight and not start him? Now I'll get no peace until he gets his hands on that rule."

"Well, really, he can't have it. And I can't see why I should have to hide and stop my work, here in my own room. Just because a spoiled kid raises a holler. I'm telling him to stay out of here and understand that he can't touch my things, and I mean it."

It is a mistake, this 'trying' to level out all differences between children, their belongings, their gifts and their weaknesses. It cannot be done. Little boys cannot use slide rules. All children are not gifted musicians. There is no reason for giving all the children in the family violins because one child can play well. There is no sense in saying, "I'd like to send Marcia to study medicine. She has the gift. But I can't send the others so I can't send her." Why not? What good will it do the others to have Marcia lose out? No good at all, and Marcia and the world in general will be the losers.

It is childish to covet what others have, what others can do, what others are in themselves, but childishness is a human trait. That does not mean that it is to be accepted and cultivated for what it is. This race ought to grow up a little in each generation, and this trying to level out all differences whether of intelligence or abilities, or what not, is decidedly not growing up.

There are gifted children in every generation, and these are to be the leaders. Leaders are needed. There is no getting on without them, so why grudge them, why covet their powers and try to take them away or give them to others who have no understanding of them and can make no use of them?

Everybody wants to lead. Some can and some cannot. The only thing to do is to admit that and train each child according to his gifts or lack of them. Cooperation is a far better scheme of living than competition. Accepting the leaders and trying to follow them in their ideas is a more intelligent way of doing than to deny leadership and reduce the whole group to a dead level.

I do not like to see classics like "Hamlet" rewritten in easy words, Shakespeare's words created "Hamlet." I don't like to see high grade intelligences subjected to the dead level of a rigid curriculum which has been graded to the level of the lowest grade mind. I object to holding all members of a family down to the tastes and abilities of the weakest member in it. The only way that succeeds is the individual way whereby each gets what he can take to the full. We can never lift the weakest to the highest one's levels, but it is possible to reduce the leaders to the dead level and make them struggle bitterly to escape.

Don't try to level children in home, school or society.

News Behind The News

NEW FORCE

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The force behind this drive to cut down government expenses beyond the president's revised budget is (don't doubt it)—the vice president.

The sage of Uvalde, Mr. Garner, continues to keep his lips taped whenever newspapermen are nigh. Yet there is evidence that he had taken hold of this expenditures matter with bit and spur. He is doing far more prodding and pulling than a vice president ever did about anything before, and apparently has Mr. Roosevelt's private but best wishes.

If you were looking for any outward sign of it, you could have found one by hanging around the treasury door in recent weeks. After cabinet meetings, after White House conferences and other financial gatherings, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau has been riding back to his office in the vice president's car. The back seat of the Garner auto was really the conference chamber in which much of this 10 per cent cutting business was hatched.

At the capitol, also, Mr. Garner has been plugging in his own quiet way, for the 10 per cent must as embodied in the Byrnes resolution. This means the Byrnes method seemed to be the one officially preferred to all the others (particularly the Bankhead 15 per cent proposal) and it probably will be the one adopted.

PHILOSOPHY

Garner is one of the few politicians within the new order who is hot upon this economy subject. He has always been that way. They say that, in the old days, before 1932, when he was Democratic boss of the house, he would not let anyone get on the appropriations committee who was not a budget-cutter. He asked this question of candidates for the committee appointment so often that it still survives in the minds of the house members: "Are you lived in favor of cutting appropriations and balancing the budget and will you vote to do so?" Anyone who hedged on the question had no chance of getting appointed to the choicest committee spot.

Also, back in the day when Garner could talk, he told friends his father started him out in life with this single admonition: "Tell the truth, always be a gentleman, save more money than you spend, and you'll have no worries." He has lived by his father's personal objection to the new American custom of writing checks for everything. He says: "You can't save money as long as you write checks."

NOTE

Garner and other old-timers who had pre-New Deal experience with government finance are really worried about the trend of the budget, actually consider it increasingly "dangerous," if not "alarming."

Why Willyum it's you, and you're pushing rite and left until you get into that store. And what are you doing now? You're pointing wildly at the show window. There seems to be a lady in there, but that must be impossible, so we'll let it pass, but the upshot of the outcome is that you buy some kind of a trick razor, am I rite, Willyum, ma said?

You were fever more wrong in your life, what I've got here is a combination icepick and lemon squeezer, pop said, and ma said, Let me see it. It's not to be opened till next Christmas, pop said. And he stuck it in his pocket and we started to eat supper.

REBELLION

Mr. R's government reorganization scheme is not getting headlines, but it is involved in just as close a, personal fight as the supreme court issue.

The situation changes rapidly, but best thought at present is that the reorganization recommendations will be split four ways. This means four different bills will be presented. Leaders decided to cut it up because, if all the ideas were consolidated in one bill, the whole program would be defeated overwhelmingly. This way, they may save some of it. Here is what they have in mind:

COMPROMISE

Bill No. 1—Will extend the civil service to such agencies as Postmaster General Farley thinks have the proper New Deal complexion. This bill will tend to perpetuate the Farley dynasty and will probably pass.

Bill No. 2—Will give Mr. R. authority to set up two new departments and reshuffle government departments as he may desire—but it will have this poker: the interstate commerce commission and the federal trade commission will be kept directly under congress and independent of any cabinet members, or the president. Furthermore, the board of rivers and harbors will be kept where it is, in the war department. (This is to keep Mr. Ickes from getting control of rivers and harbors work.)

Bill No. 3—The comptroller general will remain independent of the treasury department, just as he now is. He may be given some other title, possibly that of financial hat checker, but Mr. Roosevelt will not get control over him. This is definite. (Congressmen never liked Comptroller General McCall because he quibbled a lot about whether a man slept in an upper or lower berth or whether he should have charged the government for a pair of half-soles instead of a taxi, but he did a good job and they want another like him.)

Bill No. 4—This will give Mr. R. the authority and money to hire a new assistant. It is the one proposition which will go through congress whooping.
